Golfers Association (PGA) Championship — which was scheduled for Recreation Park, July 6-9 - the tournament has been canceled.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PGA claims it was forced into its decision to abandon temporarily the 37-year-old championship because of two reasons. 1. A ruling by the California attorney general office which forbids racially-segregated tournaments on public

2. The refusal of the National PGA to delete a Caucasian-only membership requirement clause from its constitution during the National PGA's last convention at Scottsdale, Ariz., in December.

The motion to eliminate the racial requirement was sponsored and argued for by the Southern California section. It was defeated overwhelmingly.

Not only is the Southern California PGA Championship - Long Beach's No. 1 golfing event held annually at Recreation Park since 1941 - affected, but this reporter has learned from reliable sources that the National PGA Championships scheduled for Brentwood Country Club in Los Angeles next summer, also will be canceled.

WHAT HOLDS THE entire situation to ridicule is the fact that the Tournament Bureau of the National PGA (the touring pros) has accepted Sifford into its accredited play-Sifford, who became the first Negro to win a PGAsponsored tournament — the world-wide publicized 1957 Long Beach Open — has broken the color line in golf at many places this year. They include the aristocratic Cypress Point club in Pebble Beach, the swank Eldorado and Thunderbird courses in Palm Springs, and most significantly, the North Carolina course.

The touring pros, however, have their own eligibility rules that give a player approved status but leave the option of invitation to the host course.

THE NATIONAL PGA has no such option. With a membership oriented by the rigid rules of discrimination practiced by most country clubs, the body put itself on the record by its vote at Scottsdale. No Negroes admitted, Failing in its attempt for a constitutional change, the Southern California section of the PGA was stymied.

It could have turned the championship into an open qualifying tournament, but felt that the money accrued in the championship fund ($9,000) had been contributed by members and should not be disbursed to nonmembers. It did leave the back door open for the tournament to be continued under private sponsorship at a private course.

But as far as Long Beach is concerned, the alwayscolorful Southern California PGA Championship is dead for this year. It died on a foolish color line.

'STICK TOGETHER!' ASSOCIATION ADVISES

The president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association said Saturday he violently objects to a move by Long Beach doctors to secede from the county medical

Dr. Edward H. Crane Jr., president of the 8,000-member county medical association, said secession would "set a bad precedent. He made the statement as the California Medical As-

Dr. Crane said if California Medical Assn. by-laws permitted district medical organizations to break away an investigator from the from parent county organizations, secessions would be state attorney general's office, proposed "every time someone gets unhappy.

He said Southern California physicians should present a unified front when facing medicine's major problems. "We will accomplish a lot more if we stick together,"

Dr. Crane commented.

Dr. Crane said he doubts that more than one-fourth of Long Beach doctors were given an opportunity to vote on the proposal. Attendance at district meetings seldom exceeds a quarter of the membership, he explained. Earlier, Dr. Howard J. Wiater, president of the Long Beach district, said that the proposal was approved at last Thursday night's district meeting "without one dissenting vote." Attendance at the meeting has not been disclosed. District membership numbers about 600.

Dr. Ian Macdonald, county association secretarytreasurer, indicated he favored Long Beach staying in the county association but added:

L.a.C. Says: It Has Never Worked

As President Kennedy reached the end of his first 100 days in office he finds very few of his programs enacted into law. Many of these programs are much like the New Deal spending programs of the 1930s. They were designed to provide full employment. But Congress is not in a hurry to enact them as did the Congress of 1933 under President Roosevelt. The New Deal programs did not help-in fact, they seemed to retard recovery from the depression, which started in 1929 and ended only with the start of World War II.

Evidence that this is true is shown by the Labor Department unemployment figures. Here are the figures showing the top per cent of Civilian Labor Force unemployed for each of the last 32 years:

1930 8.7	1941 9.9	1952 2.7
1931 15.9	1942 4.7	1953 2.5
1932 23.6	1943 1.9	1954 5.0
1933 24.9	1944 1.2	1955 4.0
1934 21.7	1945 1.9	1956 3.8
1935 20.1	1946 3.9	1957 4.3
1936 16.9	1947 3.6	1958, 7.5
1937 14.3	1948 3.4	1959 6.0
1938 19.0	1949 5.5	1960 6.5
1939 17.2	1950 5.0	Today 6.8

It will be noted that the longest period of high unemployment was during the eight years of high spending with NRA-WPA and a long list of aid programs supposed to give us a healthy economy. Then we had virtual full employment during the war years. Again we had it during the Korean War. We have had a steadily increasing unemployment problem since then. But never as great as when government was attempting to overcome it by its "planned economy."

Before Congress are the President's programs for aid to depressed areas-urban renewal-greater subsidies for farms-extended social security-a no-down payment housing bill-aid to education, and numerous other big spending bills. They are all based on rejuvenating what is referred to as our backward economy. If the total cost were incurred it would up the budget and taxes by 10 per cent. But, as in the 1930s. it could retard greater employment rather than help it.

This nation has gained its great economic growth |Sun, Moon, Tides and high living standards under the free enterprise system. Much as some criticize and would change it. no other system has ever worked as well. Whenever it is tampered with the economy suffers. It operates on the principle that incentive to earn and produce as free men and women will outproduce any other system of government.

These are factors which make it doubtful that the Kennedy programs will be enacted this year-as presented by him. The record of the past should convince the workers of the nation that big government and big spending will result in more harm than benefits to them. Much as the President is admired personally, it is apparent his programs are viewed with many doubts.--LAC.

Gagarin Could 'See Our Social System'

MOSCOW (UPI) - It's a small world, cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin said Saturday night, but only one thing is clearly visible from a spaceman's cabin - the collective-farm fields of Mother Russia.

Gagarin's article, "Around the World in 100 Minutes" was published in the Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, Saturday night. Full of praise for the Soviet scientific and social system, it also included new details of what he saw on his orbit of the earth April 12.

BUT HE POINTEDLY ignored the "immoderate" questions of Western correspondents as to the exact site of the launching of his rocket.

"The great October Revolution was our great launcher." Gagarin said. The spaceman, just back from a two-day visit to Czechoslovakia, said a "collective" effort helped develop his space rocket, but "the world does not yet know the names of the creators of the space rocket come to reveal them."

From a spaceman's - eye view, the world "looks like an enlarged replica of a small globe. It was close by, you could take it at a glance, and you could feel the spherical shape of the earth."

"I could see collective farm fields from in-conceivable height," he said. "That was the only trace of human life that I could see from the realm of eternal darkness.

'The very (Communist) social system of ours, which has done away forever with the overlapping of agricultural lands, could be seen from outer space."

If the Communists do not agree in a few days to end the fighting under a ceasefire agreement he will have to choose among courses of action which seem to grow more hazardous daily.

The major choices open to the President as he met with the other members of the National Security Council at the White House Saturday were

1. He can continue working a little while longer for a political settlement of the future of Laos beginning with the cease-fire and going on through a 14-nation conference. The U.S. objective is a neutralized Laos. The President reportedly felt that he could at least wait until Mon-

Thousands at Catalina Fete

Bongo-beating buccaneers. bent on fun, invaded Catalina Island this weekend by sea and air as the resort com munity observed its Third Annual Buccaneer Days.

But the bongo-beaters and their limbo-dancing counterparts apparently this year brought chaperones and the fun-seeking crowd of more than 10,000 remained "noisy but well behaved."

We've tried to eliminate the bad element we had last year," Bob Ellis, Chamber of Commerce aids and chair man of the festivities, said Saturday. "This year I think we've kept it down-but if we can't, maybe next year we'll hold the Buccanee: Days during the week."

THE AVALON police, sup-plemented by 12 deputies from the sheriff's special en forcement detail, agree.
'The crowd doesn't seem es bad as last year," Police Chief Albert Beron main-tained. "My officers have worked around the clock, and although there seem to be more juveniles around-and they're noisy-they're behaving themselves."

Although no juvenilesunder 18 years of age-werarrested, some 27 persons were arrested Friday night by the reinforced police detail. Most of the youths, all under 21, were being held or charges involving liquor, of ficers said.

More than 900 pleasure craft from all over Southern California jammed Avalon Harbor and the island's numerous coves for the threeday funfest Coast Guard natrols of the channel said only "a half dozen" craft were in need of "routine" assistance.

THE WHITE steamship, Catalina, which made its initial voyage of the season to coincide with the Buccaneer Day festivities, carried record numbers of travelers to the island. Greeters in the "pirate included roving bands of Mariachi players, barbershop quartets, Scottish bagpipers and two marching bands-the Long Beach Municipal Band and the Viking Band from State College.

A torchlight parade to the Casino Ballroom, where officials crowned the Pirate King and Queen, high-lighted Saturday night's activities.

Alp Dogs to End Mission

The days of the rescue missions of the legendary St. Bernard dogs in the Swiss Alps are numbered, the National Geographic Sociery says.

It said a new auto tunnel being burrowed beneath the great St. Bernard Pass will put an end to use of the ancient pass.

The trail through the pass was improved by the Romans in the First Century A.D. "Rome-bound tradesmen, artisans, couriers, beggars, emperors, popes and pilgrims struggled over

'CALL THIS BEDTIME?'

The big problem of Daylight Saving Time is one lawmakers overlooked: How do you convince a child it's bedtime when all outdoors is still light? A 5-year-old named Holly reacts grimly to view of elder sisters romping on her swing set. This is your reminder that at 1 a.m. this morning you should have set your clock ahead to 2 a.m. If you didn't, now's the time.—(Staff Photo by Roger Coar)

Strike Ends: Bottlers to Give Raises

A settlement has been reached in the 12-day strike against soft-drink bottling plants in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, it was an nounced Saturday by Local 848 of the Teamsters Union.

The strike ended early Saturday after 14 hours of negotiations, a federal conciliator said. All strikers are to return to work Monday as White Rock, Coca-Cola, Pepsi Cola, National Drinks and Dad's-Nesbitt plants in the Southland.

An estimated 1,200 persons have been idled in the strike. The settlement calls for a $3.50-a-week pay raise this year and a $3 increase next year for drivers of the firms involved.

Another issue -- whether advance salesmen for the bottling companies should be represented by the Teamsters -will be arbitrated, the conciliator said.

Both its personnel and its operations will be closely scrutinized and that changes will be made is as certain as that night follows day.

A committee consisting of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy, CIA Director, Allen W. Dulles, and Admiral Arleigh Burke has been appointed by President Kennedy to look into our "paramilitary" operations, Paramilitary is a high-class word for covert insurrections, invasions and

The high-powered committee is not likely to let things stand, particularly in view o the blame now being put upon CIA for its asserted failures in the Cuban effort. The CIA denies that its intelligence was at fault, but other agencies of the government are accusing it of gross miscalculations. The Taylor mission is to discover who is right in the controversy and to suggest remedial action.

MOST LIKELY RESULT of the high-level inquiry will be to separate the intelligence and the operational functions of CIA. At the present time the agency is involved in both gathering information and in various subversive and secret operations designed to bring about situations more to our liking than the ones which exist. The trouble with the present set-up, according to political theorists, is that the evaluators shouldn't be actively engaged in operations. for the latter is bound to color their thinking about the former.

There have for some time been murmurs against the CIA. It operates completely independently; no one knows how much money it spends. and it is unsupervised by anyone save the President. Demands for a congressional watchdog committee have been uttered, but CIA has successfully resisted the pressure for some form of supervision. Whether it can do so in light of the Cuban affair remains to be seen.

THE FEELING around here Is that Mr. Dulles, brother of the former secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, will be retired. He was slated for re tirement sometime in the not too far distant future and it Already at Sante are the junta leader Maurice Challe. retired air force general who was formerly commander-inchief of NATO land forces in central Europe, and Gen. Maurice Michel Gouraud, who commanded in the Constantine region of eastern Algeria.

U.N. Troops Seized; 3 Slain

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (A)—The Congolese army's suspicion of the United Nations erupted Saturday against a contingent of 60 U.N. troops from Ghana. The Ghanaians were disarmed and three were killed.

The incident took place at the important railhead of Port Francqui about 400 miles west of Leopoldville in Kasai Province. The troops from Ghana were stationed there at tempting to stop recent tribal clashes.

A U.N. spokesman said the Ghanaians were over-whelmed and forced to surrender to the Congolese troops, who are nominally loyal to President Joseph Kasavubu's government at Leopoldville.

Bill Jones, who wrote our TV repair series and the diploma mill stories and has done other specialized coverage, went to Sacramento for the first time last week.

Remembering my own experiences as a novice visitor a half dozen years or so ago, I was interested in his impressions. After hearing a short verbal report, I asked him to write me a memo on them, which I was sure would interest the California citizens who read this piece. It follows.

MEMO to Mac:

I think the first thing the beginner notices on his first trip to Sacramento is the crowd on the plane. There are no women, there are no children. Just men in neat suits and black ties and all reading a newspaper. They have made this trip There is no flamboyant spirit or clothes. With only a disdainful salute of the nose would a passenger look out the window at the huge map of earth being unrolled beneath. Being a beginner, my eyes were glued to the win-

The thing that really confuses the first-time visitor is the confusion. One legislator knows nothing about one particular bill. The next man bill will pass with ease. When they ask you about your opinion, I imagine your answer is equally confusing. The most surprising thing to the novice is to uncover what one assemblyman calls, "The Gang Method." You don't attack a fellow legislator as an individual-you gang up on him. That is: you throw blocs of votes at him.

 ${f L}^{ t EGISLATORS}$ tend to stick together and this is not necessarily along partisan lines. Crossing parties, are the Southland Group (all hail to Southern California), the Northern Group (don't call it 'Frisco), the anti-this and the pro-this. Legislators may see each other every day on the floor of the assembly or senate, but they also meet in committees, breakfast-lunch-dinner conferences, fishing irips, football games. Groups even are formed for the year in which they were first elected, like the Class of '49,

As a result of this comradeship, this friendship, a legislator talks not of his sole vote, but also the votes of his particular group,

This may all be due to the loneliness. This is a paradox because legislators are so busy. Yet, because of the extreme demand on their time, most of them must leave their wives behind. The lawmaker must abandon his comfortable home in his community for six months. He moves into hotel rooms and three-room apartments in Sacramento. Unlike the experiences in his community, he is virtually unrecognized when he walks down the street. When all business is concluded, the lawmaker retires to his small quarters for the night. It is a very lonely good-night.

AND it is a hard life, There are committee meetings. letter writing, study of bills, get-togethers to line up votes, conferences with experts to uncover the issues, meetings with the "folks from your home district," and the ceaseless stream of lobbvists. Before, I had the idea that these fellows would study a little and play a lot. Sacramento is no Recreation Park.

flicting views of Long Beach Fire Chief Frank Sandeman and State Fire Marshal Glenn B. Vance.)

Each year as the 4th of July approaches, there is the usual clamor by certain interests to "open the town" to permit the sale of so-called "safe and sane" fireworks. This year is no exception and certain fireworks manufacturing interests are petitioning the City Council to change a long-standing Long Beach city ordinance which forbids the "sale, use or possession" of any kind of fireworks, except for toy pistol caps. In this petition for consideration of the Council, these outside interests state that 'time is of the essence." In other words, "Let's get this over quick before the people wake up!"

Chief of Long Beach Fire Department

We in Long Beach have experienced a comparatively low fire loss average for many years. This is no accident. The Fire Department of Long Beach carries on a fullscale fire prevention program throughout the year. Through the efforts extended in this program, there have undoubtedly been many lives saved from the rayages of fire and properties have been protected. This is our re-

Why then allow those same children, many of whom are unsupervised, to play with fire during a limited period of the year?

These outside interests have openly stated they intend to open "40 to 50" fireworks stands in this city under the guise of contributing to "charitable and welfare" organizations. To date I have not found one organization which will benefit by such fireworks sales. Why have a sensible and workable fire prevention campaign throughout the year and then open the town to unlimited sales of fireworks during a limited period of the year?

Many serious injuries to children are caused by bootlegged fireworks as well as the so-called safe and sane type. Some are reported but many are not, due to pro-

FIRE CHIEFS OF CALIFORNIA are unanimously opposed to the sale of any type of fireworks in this state, excepting the staging of public fireworks displays by bonded and experienced fireworks technicians. Long Beach permits these displays. Many good fireworks displays are staged such as those of the Pike, International Beauty Congress and the Veterans Memorial Stadium. There are a few smaller cities in Los Angeles County which permit the sale of safe and sane fireworks. These cities constitute 16 per cent of the total population in the county. Long Beach has barred the sale of fireworks since 1924, and it is a good law. Fire chiefs of cities permitting fireworks sales are of the opinion there are no safe and sane fireworks. The sale of such only opens the door to more hazardous and dangerous experimentations at the hands of people not familiar with the hazards involved nor concerned with the lives and property of innocent people.

How would the promiscuous use of fireworks be controlled on the beaches, in the parks, or other recreational

I am unalterably opposed to the promiscuous sale, possession or use of fireworks in this city, and having seen many of the tragedies resulting from use of fireworks, I earnestly solicit the aid of the citizens of this city to oppose any legislation permitting the sale of fireworks in

The State Fireworks Law as constituted by Part 2, Division 11, State of California Health and Safety Code, amended Sept. 18, 1959, provides for lawful retail sale of special fireworks classified as "safe and sane," from 12 noon on June 28 to 12 noon on July 6 by persons who have secured the required state license and the local per-

Neither the law nor permits issued under it authorize the sale, use or discharge of fireworks in any city or county in which such sale, use or discharge is prohibited by law or ordinance. However, persons living in "closed" cities like Long Beach unlawfully discharge fireworks which they have bought in "open" neighboring cities.

THE STATE FIRE MARSHAL has the responsibility for classifying fireworks as "safe and sane" in accordance with very stringent regulations. These are so exacting that both the internal and external construction as well as the exact chemical composition are governed. Live samples are dissected, examined and test fired before being classified as "safe and sane" under the statute. A sworn statement by the manufacturer accompanies every shinment that they have supervised the production, inspected the fireworks to determine that they do meet California specifications and that they are identical in every respect to the samples submitted to the state for classification as "safe and sane." Shipments are sample tested as each arrives in California.

Last season we mailed over 950 questionnaires to California fire chiefs requesting a detailed report of fires and accidents caused by fireworks. Forty-six cities and counties reported incidents, principally grass fires with few buildings and fewer autos involved. Seventeen injuries were reported, principally minor burns. Causes of fires and injuries were attributed in the main (31%) to firecrackers which are illegal and were used in violation of the state law. The next principal cause was sparklers

OF THE 46 CITIES and counties reporting fireworks incidents, 20 were "closed" like Long Beach and 26 were "open." Of the 48 cities and counties reporting no fireworks incidents 17 were "closed" and 31 were "onen."

Thus it appears it makes little difference whether the city is closed or open so far as fireworks use and discharge are concerned for citizens merely buy fireworks in open cities, then bring them home to use.

As to bootlegging firecrackers, cherry bombs and salutes—the natural market for these illegal explosive items is the "closed" city.

It is unrealistic to expect the police department to arrest every child who fires a firecracker or every adult citizen who entertains his family with safe and sane fireworks on the lawn. The result is a general disregard for enforcement at home, with the profits accruing to charitable and service organizations in neighboring cities.

FFFORTS TO OBTAIN a badly-needed Navy hospital for the 36,000 sailors based in the Long Beach area received a setback this week when the Senate Armed Services Committee cut a $10 million authorization from the military construction bill.

The cause is not entirely lost, however, for the measure now goes to a conference between the Senate and the House. Sen. Clair Engle of California is battling to get the hospital appropriation restored at that

THE CASE HE REPRESENTS is strong and

One, defense officials have agreed that the hospital is presently needed to round out Navy facilities in this

Two, Long Beach has made the necessary land available in a choice location.

Three, the international situation has become increasingly serious, requiring that the nation put such medical facilities in operation and have them available for emergencies.

THE SENATE COMMITTEE questioned whether the hospital is needed. After all, wasn't a local Navy hospital declared surplus and turned over to the Veterans Administration just 10 years ago?

The answer is yes—and it was a big mistake.

Closure of the Navy hospital was ridiculous in 1950 and was proven even more ridiculous by subsequent events. Since the transfer of the old hospital to the VA, this country has fought the Korean War and 10 years of "cold war," requiring the development of defense forces and installations at home and abroad.

A SEPARATE NAVY HOSPITAL was needed in 1950, and the need has grown steadily every year

To go back to a decision that was folly and use that decision as the basis for another decision today would be completely illogical and dangerous.

Government should profit from its mistakes, not use them as patterns for future action.

America's Answer

COMMUNIST NATIONS WILL put their guns, tanks, and missiles on parade tomorrow in their traditional May Day observance. As an answer, Americans will celebrate "Law Day," which glorifies, not arms, but individual freedoms and the system of justice which protects them. In Long Beach, 400 government students from senior high schools will tour local courts, visit the judges' chambers, and sit as spectators at trials.

A program for the general public is planned for tomorrow night.

CIA Task Doubled Since Start in '47

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON-Whether or not the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) goofed over Cuba, no one can dony that its problems have sharply increased since it went into business in 1947. The number of independent nations on which it must check has doubled to more than 100. It has had to put more reliance on its 20 regional offices around this country where agents keep in close touch with travelers returning from abroad and with college professors who specialize in studies of critical areas of the world. The problem of acquisition and evaluation of intelligence, particularly regarding the current crises all over the globe, is illustrated by the experience of one high official who Thor years I've been taking a big black notebook home to work on every night. This year I've been taking two notebooks home."

YOU CAN HEAR the brain cells clicking in the House of Representatives as Republicans try to think up a counter-plot to nullify the plot Democrats have cooked up to win passage of a federal aid to education bill. What the Democratic plan boils down to is an encircling movement.

For years, there has existed a program which provides federal aid to school districts where large numbers of military or federal civilians are at work. Titled the "impacted school program," it also provides money in lieu of taxes in districts where the federal government is a big property owner. The Eisenhower administration tried to cut back the program on grounds it has got out of hand. The Kenreay administration also recommends cutting it down sharply and eventually eliminating it. But the program is popular with congressmen, particularly in states like California, Massachusetts and Texas where there is lots of defense activity.

The Democrats now plan to continue the program, but will insist on tacking it on to the general education bill. This will pose a neat dilemma for Republicans representing areas which receive help from the impacted schools program. If they vote against the aid to education bill on principle, they also will be voting against a program that funnels large amounts into their districts. It's a choice many Republicans don't want to make, and they're trying to think up ways to head it off.

THE AFTERMATH of the Cuban affair is likely to bring about large changes in the once-secret Central Infelligence Agency. Far too much publicity has been focussed upon it and to a certain extent its effectiveness-of anyhas been impaired. At all events, watch for the intelligence and operational functions to be separated with the latter going into a new and highly secret organization highly secret, that is, until its members and others start talking about it. The Cuban hasco has also made very unsteady the perch of CIA director Allen W. Dulles,

To tell a state how it must appropriate its funds, how it shall set up its own system of education, and what steps it must take to satisfy the federal government's demands is unprecedented in American history. Yet this, in effect, is the authority sought by the Department of Justice, with the approval of the President, in applying to a federal court for an order against the State of Virginia.

The step is far-reaching. It could mean that in the future the federal government could even tell a state it must have a uniform system of government applying to every county or city. It so happens that the State of Virginia permits its counties and proval of an overwhelming independent cities to adopt, as they choose, number of the American various forms of executive management or control by boards of supervisors elected by ing in to the White House the people. THIS DOCTRINE is, of course, based upon the concept of the Fourteenth Amendment which the Supreme Court of the United States proclaimed in its "desegregation" decisions in 1954. The point was made then that "equal protection of the laws" means equal application of state laws to children attending public schools. But there is nothing in the Fourteenth Amendment or anywhere else in the Constitution which says that the federal government may tell a state it cannot provide funds to keep its public schools open in 97 counties and 32 independent cities because a single county happens to close such schools. This is an obvious form of punitive action that can readily be repeated by an executive order directing any state which accepts federal funds to operate all its schools according to standards laid down by a federal

FOR MONTHS now, the lobbyists for federal aid to education and the politicians who hope to get votes through promised increases in teachers' salaries have been deny ing that any form of federal control of education would be involved in current proposals for financial aid to state schools, But now it turns out that, without any specific right granted through existing law, an executive order could be issued-or a court decree sought by direct intervention at the ratio of around 4 to plied by the U.S. Department of Justice, of the federal government-telling a state I for military intervention, the counties and municipalities would not how to run its educational system.

Applause Came on Cue but Not to Five Who Voted 'Aye'

None were there to applaud the five councilmen who voted to confirm Mayor Edwin Wade's seven-member committee first city requirement for eventual qualification under the Short-Doyle Act for matching state funds to assist in a mental health

HOUSER It is they who deserved the applause for standing and being counted on behalf of a program whose need has already been demonstrated and in the teeth of obstruction by the hard core crew-the Graham applauders-who paraded their charges of communism, police state and irresponsi-

Councilman Robert Crow was as good as his oft-stated sally: "When it gets too tough for everybody else it's just right for He led the fight for confirming the Mayor's committee and used, I thought, admirable restraint and understatement in advising his lecturers, "Anyone who preaches communism at this point is taking a great deal on himself." He added that committee members were good American citizens undertaking to report on the need for mental care here.

JOINING WITH GRAHAM in the negative vote were Bert B. Bond and Andrew Baird. Bond said his vote had nothing to do with charges of communism, only on the need and whether an alternate method of financing is in order.

Standing with Crow were Lewis D. Reese, Virgil Spongberg, Emmet Sullivan and Mayor Wade. Later Sullivan aligned with the negatives in voting to rescind an April 4 Council action which authorized "implementing" the Short-Doyle Act. It lost on the 4-4 tie vote. Councilman Raymond Kealer was absent.

be made well through a woodshed thrash- experts to challenge the obstructionists

IT'S BEEN FOUR DAYS, at this writing, ing. If he means the spoiled brat may be improved, he may have a point and, indeed he said "so-called psychiatric care."

We must add that Mr. Graham also said, If I thought there was a need I would be the first to try to find some way to provide that help." But he made it clear he wants no part of the Short-Doyle way.

Mayor Wade's committee adds himself and Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey to the previous five-member study group which recommended in June 1959 additional mental health services. The five reappointed are H. Milton Van Dyke, M.D., John C. Lungren, M. D., Montie Magree, M.D., Lionel Dyck Jr. and Daniel W. Langston,

"If I thought there was a need . . ." said

WELL, HOW'S THIS for need? An emotionally disturbed child applying for help at Long Beach Psychiatric Clinic today stands in a line SIX MONTHS long before he can be seen for his first interview. If that child needs treatment he must wait NINE MONTHS more for his turn. Right now there are 114 children awaiting treatment at the clinic.

Parents bring 25 to 30 children a month to the clinic seeking to start treatment for them. With its present staff the clinic can accommodate only 70 or 80 children in an entire year. The need is here. The people demonstrate they want it because they are applying to use ir.

"We have a year's work ahead of us right now." says Dr. Merle C. Page, psychiatrist and clinic director. "We can't possibly meet emergencies adequately

The clinic gets about 75 per cent of its support from Community Chest, other financing from the P.T.A. Milk Fund, Children's Benefit League Soroptimist and Altrusa Clubs. But the clinic, like other Red Feather agencies, has had to take a cut in funds this year.

IT IS BY NO MEANS certain that Crow, Reese, Spongberg, Wade and Sullivan will vote further to implement the Short-Doyle Act. But you may be sure that when the test comes, the City Hall gallery will have the hard core opponents on hand,

Even if Councilmen are inclined to remedy this sad neglect of children in need, Mr. Graham surely does not seriously it must be discouraging never to find outcontend that a mentally disturbed child can side the rail on voting day some respected

With the unemployment problem the greatest in ears and with no apparent tive attitude regarding our great reduction in the future own national history. Can't it is time we all take a more serious look as to the main reason. I write of course about automation, which al, informative, profitable has been and will continue to be the leading cause of MADELEINE SHIBE idle workers,

Politicians, business executives, the Chamber of merce and many others all try to convince themselves as well as others that automation increases the work force along with the increase in productivity. This theory has been proven wrong by factual figures of the many idle workers in America,

It is time to face facts other than false and misleading statements. Let us take the auto workers, 200,-000 jobs lost forever; coal miners, 150,000 lost; steelworkers, 250,000 johs gone forever. This does not include the many whitecollar workers and other industrial employes who have personally felt the sharp edge axe of automation.

effort to put a man into space after landing in the water. comes this week, the capsule will be fitted with manual controls to allow the astronaut to maneuver it and re turn to the ground in case of an emergency. Tentative blast-off time is 8 a.m. EDT, Tuesday.

While the Mercury shot atop a Redstone rocket scheduled for Tuesday from Cape Canaveral will be only short lob of a few hundred miles, the test will give the astronaut an opportunity to see how the controls and instruments work in the environment of space.

ACCORDING TO Russian accounts, Gagarin's sole job aboard the Soviet capsule was that of observer. Control of the space vehicle remained completely in the hands of ground crews who radioed signals to it.

Whether this was because they wished to eliminate the possibility of their cosmonaut's bailing out of orbit on the far side of the Iron Curtain, the Russian scientists did not say. But by keeping the controls out of his hands they effectively removed the temptation.

Early in the planning for Project Mercury it was decided to include both automatic and pilot controls in the U.S. capsule, each to back up the other in the event of failure.

UNDER A CONTRACT from McDonnell Aircraft Co. the Minneapolis - Honey well Aeronautical Division de signed a wrist-action stick control that the astronaut could use despite the tre-mendous gravity forces during lift-off and re-entry.

The automatic control system contains gyroscopes and a computer, and issues commands to jets which emit spurts of gas to correct deviations in flight.

One of the unique instruments in the Mercury capsule is a device containing a globe replica of the earth revolves slowly to duplicate the position of the earth under the orbiting capsule. The capsule contains a periscope for direct viewing as well, but cloud cover might

Queen's Visit to Pope Spurs Amity of Faiths

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (49-Queen Elizabeth will meet Pope John XXIII in Rome on Friday in an atmosphere of increasing tolerance among Christian Particularly between the Anglican Church, which she heads, and the Roman Catholic Church, relationships are more cordial than they have been at any time since the energetic and much-married King Henry VIII violently severed all ties with the Vatican more than 400 years ago.

The meeting between the Queen and the Pontiff is sure to "be of more than ordinary courtesy," said the Arch-bishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, top Anglican prelate. The archbishop, who subsequently announced he would retire, himself visited the Pope last December, a meeting which gave rise in many places to speculation that events might be moving toward a union of Roman Catholic and Anglican

But Anglican leaders were swift to discount the possibility of such a development.

5 Types Listed in Alcoholism repared in collaboration with George X. Trimble, M.D., medical education director, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER

An expert on alcoholism says there are five types of alcoholism but that only two of the types can be considered a disease.

The disease types, according to a report in the journal Lancet, are gamma alcoholism and delta alco-

Alcoholics in the United States are mainly gammas, the expert contends. The gamma alcoholic is the drinker who loses control and keeps drinking to the point of intoxication or sickness.

In France, however, alcoholics are mainly deltas. The delta alcoholic is unable to abstain from drinking. He drinks day in, day out, morning till night, but, as a rule, doesn't get drunk.

Alpha and epsilon alcoholism, the expert says, are symptoms of underlying disorders, while beta alcoholism results from cultural drinking patterns.

STRETCH SOCKS may possibly be harmful to children with foot disorders, believes a St. Louis physician, Dr. Alex Harell.

The doctor contends that prolonged periods of steady force, although slight, may tend to bring about claw toes. In addition, stretch socks may cause excessive sweating of the feet, he says.

Dr. Harell, in a letter to Current Medical Digest, admits that "there are no long-range controlled experimental studies available proving the harmfulness of stretch socks."

Even so, he says: "I advise the parents of children treated for foot disorders to avoid using stretch socks.'

Readers should remember that this observation is reported purely as a matter of interest. It should not be regarded as the basis for a radical departure from customary practices.

THE MAYO CLINIC is so convinced of the safety factor offered by seat belts that belts have now been installed in all clinic service cars and ambulances.

Mayo's Dr. A. J. Bianco says that the clinic has a responsibility beyond that of protecting employes' "We also have a responsibility to convince others, by our own example, of the importance of safety measures," he says in the Mayo Clinic employes' newspaper, Mayovox. AS IF CONGO RESIDENTS didn't have enough troubles, here's another: In the Uele region, in the north part of the Congo, exists the highest incidence of goiter in the world. Researchers of the Universities of Louvaine and Brussels give an up-to-date report on the goiter prob-lem in the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and

The goiter area covers thousands of square miles, occupied by 600,000 inhabitants. In some regions as many as 80 per cent of school-age children have goiter (enlarged thyroid gland). Occasionally goiter can be found even in the newborn. The associated conditions of dwarfism and mental deficiency can sometimes be Cause of the goiter: severe dietary deficiency in iodine. Iodine content of the water is extremely low.

SPEECH TRAINING for deaf children should begin when the child is 2 to 3 years old, recommends an AMA Journal consultant, Dr. Edmund P. Fowler. For information regarding a speech-training school best suited for your child's needs, write Volta Bureau, Washington, D. C.

SCHIZOPHRENIA, the most common mental disorder, is increasing, according to Patterns of Disease, a publication for physicians. One half of all mental hospital patients are schizophrenics. The average patient stays in the hospital for 10.8 years.

DOCTORS SHOULD carefully question pregnant patients about their occupations, suggests Prof. C. S. Russell of the University of Sheffield, England. Otherwise many obstetrical patients may continue heavy physical work, which could prove detrimental. Prof. Russell, reporting in the journal Lancet, says a study of 510 pregnant patients revealed "a surprising number of women working very hard and not thinking of easing up."

Curb Usage of Powerful Drug Here

Routine use of the powerful antibiotic Chloromycetin has been forbidden in two government - operated hospitals here, The Independent Press-Telegram learned Satur day.

The disclosures came in the wake of an announcement that Los Angeles County General Hospital has barred use of the drug except for last-resort lifesaving measures.

Dr. Leonard West, medical director of Long Beach General Hospital, said that "for some months now" ward physicians have been required to obtain permission from their chiefs of service to administer the drug.

"THE DRUG is not used routinely here," he said,

Dr. Thomas J. Pekin, direc tor of professional services as Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, said routine use of the drug, also known as chloramphenicol, has not been permissible in the VA Hospital for more than two years. Medical authorities are concerned about indiscriminate use of the drug for two reasons: Certain blood disorders Ricky Nelson to Be 21 on May 8

Angels, Dodgers Sport Winning Smiles

There Was Plenty of Action on Base Paths Saturday: at left, Ken Hunt of Angels Collides With Twins Catcher Earl Battey; at right, Frank Howard of Dodgers Is About to Topple on Cubs Catcher Dick Bertell; below, Bob Cerv of Angels Escapes Out When Throw to Stretching Twins First Baseman Don Mincher Was Wild.

Angels Bag First Series

By ROSS NEWHAN

Ken McBride fired his first major league victory Saturday as the Angels made their eight-game losing streak a definite thing of the past, defeating Minnesota 4-1 for their second straight win.

It was the first complete game by an Angel pitcher since Eli Grba set down Baltimore in the Seraphs' league opener April 11.

The victory, before 5,109 appreciative fans, enabled the Angels to capture their firstever home series, two games gr to one, McBride's performance gave the Angel pitching staff Battey a fine 2.04 ERA for the three games with the Twins Drafted from the Chicago White Sox where he was 0in 1959 and 0-1 in 1960, Mc Bride gave up five hits, struc out six and walked five. H has now given up just six run: and 15 hits in 19 and one third innings this year.

"All I can say is that i feels great," said McBride about getting his first win it the big time.

HE GOT A big boost from Ken Aspromonte's two-ru homer in the first, for the Angels had been unable to score a run for him in his previous 10 and one-third Kant (L. 1-1) innings on the mound,

"It helps to get those runs McBride (W. 1.2) ... 9 5 1 5 6 U Umont, Stewart, Rerry, Lin-You get into the late innings and you don't have to be as careful. You can lay one in and they'll take it "

McBride layed a fast ball in a little too high to Earl Battey in the fourth inning and the big catcher walloped it over the left field fence for Minnesota's only run. The Twins didn't threaten again,

"THE SINKER and changeup were my best pitches," said McBride. "I tired the last three innings, but that actually helped my sinker. I wasn' throwing as hard which caused the sinker to do all kinds of tricks."

McBride has been impressive since the very start of spring training,

"I'm not doing anything dif ferent this year than I have in the past," he revealed, however. "The only thing we worked on this spring was the curve. Grissom (pitching coach Marv) has me following through more than I used to.

The Angels actually didn't need any more runs than those two in the first. Aspro monte's homer, his first of

Howard Zeroes In 2 Homers, 6 RBI

CHICAGO—Frank Howard found the home run range Saturday and cured whatever ailed the Dodgers against lefthanded pitching. With two bunyanesque strokes the first one-handed, Howard drove in six runs and made it easy for Johnny Podres to conquer the Chicago Cubs, 9-4.

Now that the horrible streak was over this was a different band of Angels.

Not that they had changed much during the eight games of misery, but there had been little wisecracking and very few after-game smiles.

It was a different story Saturday, however, The scene was the batting cage about two hours before game time and the Angels were a boisterous, joking crew

Ted Kluszewski, Leon Wagner and Julio Becquer were playing "long ball," a game in which you try to hit only homers and the one who hits the least must pay.

Kluszewski rifled one against a palm tree which stands between the screen and wall in right field, "Don't count," shouted Becquer in his Cuban English, "You got to hit it out of the park. We should make you bat right

BECQUER JUMPED INTO the cage. "Give me curve," he yelled to former major league star Irv Noren who was pitching batting practice. Noren served up a slow curve and Becquer swung with a fury of Paul Bunyan but missed as the batting cage kibitzers roared,

"Play you for $20," Becquer said to Del Rice. "You sure you want to," said Rice. "Sure," answered Becquer. Rice stepped into the cage and promptly hit one of Jack Paepke's high fast balls over the left field wall.

Thereafter, Julio was as silent as the "J" in his name. Little Albie Pearson attempted to sneak around big Klu and into the cage before his turn, "What are you doing?" roared Klu, "Isn't it my turn to hit?" Pearson

Bridges Still .400 Entertainer

Rocky Bridges may be acquiring a foot-deep shine in the seat of his pants from overtime service on the Angel bench this young season, but there's still no moss on this Rock when it comes to entertaining banquet audiences.

Bridges proved once again that he can bat .400 in the entertainment league when he guested the Lions Club banquet Friday noon in the Wilton Hotel. (For those who want a repeat performance in spades. Rocky and two of his mates, Eddie Yost and Tom Morgan, are billed for Wednesday noon at the Lafayette Hotel by the Chamber of Commerce.) Asked how he felt returning home after suffering through eight rainouts during a 16-day road trip. Rocky cracked:

"When I got home, I hired a couple of bellboys and plopped down in the lobby

A Lion inquired why Bridges hadn't yet broken into the lineup. The Rock shot back

"Bill Rigney's got a whole club of $75,000 players (Rocky was not one of the drafted Angels, but was signed as a free agent), so he's trying to see what he got for his money. I guess he's seeing, all right."

When the Lions presented Bridges with a mammoth five-foot bat (picture elsewhere on this page), Rocky quipped:
"Maybe if I bring this to Wrigley Field, Rigney'll let me play.

That may be the only way Bridges will bust into Rigney's lineup. Rig told us a few days ago that he wanted to use the younger Ken Aspromonte at second base as much as possible, but the talkative Italian has been as impressive thus far as a day-old frankfurter.

Rigney should catch one of Bridges' luncheon matinees. The Nipomo Avenue mortgage holder wields a big stick in that department, which is more than one can say of his mates on the field!

SYRUP ON YOUR SUNDAY HOTCAKES:

.. Harry Hulmes of the Baltimore Colts was in Long Beach a few days ago to inspect living quarters and playing facilities here. The Colts are interested in spending a week here between their Ram and 49er games and according to Harry, they want no more part "of that L.A.

. . Hulmes thinks the Rams will be "real tough" this season, but he warns not to overlook his Colts, "The Yankees came back after a bad season, didn't they?" he queried. To which one can answer only "YES!"

Big talk at the Harbor Trojan Club's affair the other night at Norm Stow's home was around Willie Brown, the ex-Poly halfback whom the old grads hope will make 'em forget all about Jon Arnett. "This boy has burned up our Saturday scrimmages," beamed boss John McKay, "but I'm real eager to see what he can do May 6 against alums like Ron Mix. Garry Finneran, Leon Clarke and Marlin McKeever." Bustin' his buttons at all the praise was Willie Brown Sr., who predicted his son would give the "old" Trojans all they could handle.

MORE SUNDAY SYRUP:

Minnesota pitcher Pedro Ramos is one fella to whom you don't want to mention Fidel Castro. The Cuban chucker said a few days ago that he "hated" the dictator. And Pedro has an excellent reason: Castro took over Ramos cigar factory in Havana!

Ramos is probably the only baseballing Cuban who'll discuss his feeling on Castro. The Angels' Julio Becquer won't even continue a conversation when the Cuban subject arises . . . and small wonder. Julio hasn't heard from his family in Havana for three weeks!

. Another mum Cuban is Twin shortstop Zoilo Versalles, "Castro don't give Zoilo base hits," mumbles the 20-year-old youngster, "so Zoilo don't talk about Cas-

. . . And is there any truth to the report that Ohio State is so interested in Compton cage ace Fred Goss that the school is trying to induce the Dodgers' Frank Howard (a former Buckeye cage all-America) to discuss Buckeye advantages with Freddie? Just wondering . . . that's all.

No one will say whether Cole will be given an opportunity to manage or how long Harry Craft, the current head coach, will remain in office.

General manager John Holland has been quoted as saying that Craft may finish the season, but the Chicago newspapermen are betting against it.

Law Back in Form Picks Up First Win

CINCINNATI (A)-Vern Law, a 20-game winner last year, won his first game this year by keeping the Cincinnati Reds to five hits while leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 victory.

It was the Reds' seventh straight defeat.

Law, now 1-3, was replaced by Roy Face in the seventh inning after the Reds staged a brief uprising powered by home runs from Gene Freese and Frank Robinson.

Up to then, Law had given fey, Philadelphia's fire-balling up only one hit — to losing young righthander, pitched his pitcher Joey Jay (0-3), who way past a defensive collapse nit a double with two out in by his teammates and stopped the St. Louis Cardinals on a the third.

Lane Not So Frantic in K.C.

Is Frank Lane as disillusioned in Kansas City as Gabe Paul must have been in Houston? Is he sorry he left Cleveland? Absolutely not, to hear him tell it.

As the A's move into Wrigley Field today for a double-header with the Angels, Lane reiterates that "this club looks like champions compared with the White Sox when I took them over in 1948. We put all 40 Sox players on the waiver list and only Cass Michaels and Howie Judson were claimed.

Chisox, Frank moved over to Cleveland and by the time he left there the past winter for K.C., he had completely turned over the roster. He figures to do the same with the A's, the American League's lastplace club of 1960.

FRANK LANE "But Frank is quick to say that he thinks his A's

Has A's Relaxed at least have potential, which is far more than he could say for the '48 White Sox.

Lane is not one to sit still. As Harvey Kuenn, who played for him in Cleveland before going to San Francisco the past winter, says: "The Indians had so many players coming and going that we had to take a new team pic-ture every week."

FRANK, OF COURSE, IS NOTED as baseball's most prolific trader. He pulled off his strangest deal last year when he swapped Cleveland manager Joe Gordon for manager Jimmie Dykes of Detroit. Surprisingly enough, now that fate has thrown him and Gordon together again in Kansas City, they are getting along famously.

In fact, Lane says "I have made my last trade like that. Managers deserve more respect. However, when things aren't working, I'm a great believer in a change. But Joe is the perfect man for Kansas City during the rebuilding program we're entering. He's loose and with the type of ballplayers we've got, that's the best kind of a guy

"Most of our players are worried anyway about whether they're going to stay in the majors much longer and if you didn't have a loose manager, he'd just worry

LANE LAUGHS AT THOSE WHO predicted that even the new clubs in L.A. and Washington would beat out the A's this season. For one thing, he notes there will be an automatic improvement under the new regime.

Kansas City was an unhappy ball club last year, part of the reason for its very poor season. Former manager Bob Elliott, now a coach with the Angels, was unpopular with several key players and it made for a bad situation.

Observers say that Gordon has effected a relaxed atmosphere so far without any letdown on the part of the players. And on top of that, the A's new owner, Charles O. Finley, is doing everything he can to make everyone

He entertains the players lavishly whenever he has the opportunity and one dinner for the team in Florida this spring cost him $4,000 . . . unheard of under the old regime. He gave $150 clock radios to the team members and at the same time announced that if the club finished in the first division (fifth or better), he would tear up all contracts and give each player a better one . . . retroactive to the start of the season.

IN SIZING UP THE A's, Lane feels he has a good, solid outfield with such men available as Norm Siebern, Bill Tuttle, Leo Posada, Hank Bauer, etc. The infield defense has been surprisingly tight so far as rookie Dick Howser has been turning in some fine glove work at the problem spot-shortstop. Three ex-Yankees round out the infield-Mary Throneberry at first, Jerry Lumpe at second and Andy Carey at third.

The pitching has been spotty behind Bud Daley and Ray Herbert, two outstanding hurlers, but some of the young pitchers have shown flashes of extreme effectiveess. Haywood Sullivan, formerly of the Red Sox, has helped plug the crucial catching spot.

Sticking to hard facts, sixth place is an ambitious goal for the A's with the greater probability of an eighth-

Snead, Palmer, Player Top Standout Las Vegas Field

All this and Sam Snead

That's the motto of the ninth annual Tournament of Champions golf spectacular at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas Thursday through Sunday.

Insured an artistic success by the presence of such players as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Ken Venturi, Jay Hebert, Gene Littler and Billy Casper, the $40,000 tourney took on added luster and excitement by the surprise entry of Slammin' Sammy.

No question that the fans love the high-living hillbilly from White Sulphur Springs, Boca Rotan and other palatial points. It will be interesting to compare the size of the gallery he commands with those of Palmer and Player.

A flop in previous visits to the merry town of spinning fortunes, Snead could be a serious contender this week. He's here on orders from his Wilson Co. sponfor the national telecast of the tournament on Sunday), and might be in mind to play . . . golf.

Overlooked among Snead, Palmer and Player is defending champion Jerry Barber, who at 5-foot-5 is easy to overlook. The pride of the pygmies took part the long par-72 layout last year with astonishing 69-66-66-67 ease. His 268 crumbled Stan Leonard's old tournament record by seven strokes and was four below the second-place 272 of Hebert.

Even so, Barber is listed at only 15-1 in latest odds from Las Vegas. As expected, Palmer and Player are co-favorites, at 6-1,

TIP FROM PALMER:

Beware of Sandy Vegas Fairways

By ARNOLD PALMER

golfers are "Northern" usually thrown for a loss when they encounter sandy fairways in some southern and desert area courses When the touring pros tee up this week in the annual Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, for example, they'll have to hit quite a few shots from sandy fair-

Desert Inn is truly a championship course. The fairways are firm, but when you wander near the edge. you may have to hit off that sandy desert turf. Not sand trap shots, mind you, but shots from ground which has a high sand content. This situation would often come up on the par 5, 554-yard fifth hole, where players striving for maximum distance off the tee might drive slightly off line and into such a lie.

When Jerry Barber won this tournament last year with a record 275, he avoided this sideline trouble for the most part. This is one tournament I've never won, and one reason is that I've been off line too much.

A golfer hitting from a sandy turf lie must settle for less distance. The ball won't "spring" from the ground as readily as it will off firmer turf. The most important technical point, illustrated today, is that it's imperative that the ball be struck first.

However, that is true in any iron shot. So what, exactly, is the difference?

It's this: A golfer's errors catch up with him on sandy soil. When the clubhead hits slightly behind the ball on solid turf, the golfer will often get off a fairly decent shot. But when that is done on sandy turf, the sand slows the clubhead and the shot's distance will be drastically shortened.

What all this amounts to is the fact than on sandy turf, the margin for error is greatly reduced. If you expect to score well, you must play your best shots. Stance, Grip, Backswing, Downswing

Per Once again the Newport race has drawn a record-shattering list of entries. There will be more than 400 sailing craft competing in the event, which starts Thursday noon just outside Newport Harbor. In addition, there will be a large fleet of escort and committee boats not listed as competitors. Many entrants in the race are taking part in shakedown cruises this weekend to Catalina Island, where the third annual Buccaneer festival is in progress. EVEN THOUGH the En-senada event is reasonably short-135 miles-the large number of entries makes it the largest yacht race in the world. Actually, the Tortilla Handicap, as some call it, has become more popular each year since its inception 14 years ago. Last year's winner. Brayata (Long Beach Yacht Club) and Odyssey (Newport Harbor YC), are among the favorites this year. Odyssey was the first boat to finish in the 1960 race, but Bravata won the over-all cup on corrected

Many of the boats in the race will be entered in the TransPacific Classic from Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor to Honolulu on July 4.

There are three types of bass fishermen: (1) the man who relies on mudsuckers or other live bait, (2) the angler with umpty-nine dozen different kinds of lures in his tackle box and (3) the man who puts four or five lures in a cigar box and depends entirely upon those to catch fish for his dinner.

Who profits the most? Any one attempting to answer that question is inviting the greatest argument since the cold war started between East and West.

Certainly I won't attempt to answer it even though I have field-tested more lures than any average fisherman. Some have been good, some bad, but those I call bad might have been excellent had the bass been active while those lures were being used.

LOOK IN ANY tackle box and you'll find lures dating back many years, plus several new ones. Chances are that the oldtimers even now could attract as many fish as the newer and "hotter" numbers.

In the last three years there has been a tendency to leave the tackle box contents at home, take along a dozen black eel-like lures and fish with those exclusively.

It's very true that eel-like lures have caught more bass in some lakes than any other type, but usually those catches have been made at times when the bass were down deep. I'd be willing to wager that the bottom of Lake Cachuma, for instance, is black with such lures snagged on brush and rocks.

It has been a cheerful period for the terminal tackle manufacturers; they have sold millions of black eels in one type or another and great percentages of those have been lost on the lake bottoms.

NOW THAT summer is approaching, why not try some of the other lures for bass, trout—yes, even ocean fish. Dig through the tackle box and give the oldtimers

Also, the new plastics on the market this season are great fish getters. Get away from the blacks and try the naturals-lures that resemble worms, night crawlers, grasshoppers, bugs, shrimp, sand crabs and all the insect Virtually all firms that make terminal tackle are turning out tons of the new plastics. Tru-Lur of Long Beach is among the West Coast leaders.

WHEN A LURE IS MADE so realistically that you can scare the office stenographer half out of her wits simply by laying one on her desk, it's just possible that a fish might think it was the real thing and go for a bite of

it. Such lures are being produced by Tru-Lur.

Creme Lure Co., of Akron, Ohio, is another. DeLong, of Cleveland, is producing some of the most fantastic artificials in the business. This column recently carried a story about one-the Squirm-that set Lake Mead bass crazv. DeLong also has dragon fly imitations that do everything except go into orbit when taken from the

The point of all this is that, once you have found a lure that works well, keep using it until it runs its course. Then try something eise, but don't throw away any lure that has caught fish; there will be another day.

No lure is going to work well unless it is worked according to directions. Uusually the manufacturer tells you how to work it best.

I have seen anglers compete against each other in the pared with Kelso's track same boat, using exactly the same equipment. One failed; the other caught fish. Why? The successful angler knew just how to work his lure on the retrieve.

SALTON CITY CELEBRATES the first 1,000 days of its history with a corvina fishing contest, a 50-mile marathon Western Outboard Association boat race, a Hawaiian luau and stage show and the opening of Salton Bay Yacht Club's $500,000 building next Saturday and Sunday.

Of primary interest to the fishermen is the corvina contest. A trophy, plus prizes, will be presented to the angler weighing in the heaviest limit of that game fish at the SBYC on Saturday.

WOA races will start at 11 a. m. Saturday and feature unlimited, modified and pleasure classes. Chuck Stearns, national skiiing champion of Bellflower, will put on a water-ski show on the same day.

The SBYC marks a tremendous advance in boating for the sea. Investment in that semiprivate club is estimated at three-quarters of a million dollars and it is designed as a part of a 120-unit hotel now on the drawing boards. The club has private boat docks, a launching ramp and numerous recreational facilities on shore.

With no "take charge" colt scaring away the opposition, it appears that from 15 to 20 horses might go to the post next Saturday in 87th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

With a background in banking and savings & loan work in addition to public relations work with Mytinger Corporation since 1947, Bernyce has brought a wealth of related experience and knowledge to the Real Estate profession. She has been associated with Isabel Patterson. Realtor, at 203 Glandora since the first of this year. The Belmont Share and Naples area is her first preference having lived there for many years.

Bernyce takes an active interest in the Long Beach Realty Board and other civic organizations and is an active member of St. Bartholomew's church.

OUTSTANDING BUY OF THE WEEK 162-164 LORETA WALK

NEAR THE MARINA IN NAPLES

The upper unit is furnished and has a nice sundeck for autdoor entertaining. Two garages give ample storage and car space for both units and a separate laundry room is a much appreciated convenience by tenants.

you might try $3500 down — she intends to sell this today!

R. Effinger, sales director, announced,

The spacious residences offer three and four bedroom plans with family rooms, convertible dens and, in some plans, dining rooms, all with wo attractively appointed baths, convenient separate service porch and oversize two-car garages,

Quality construction is one of the outstanding features and it includes lath and plaster and forced-air heating. Roster of attractions also lists fireplaces of brick or stone with gas log lighters. sliding glass doors; baths with imported mosaic tile. marble topped pullman lavatories and stall showers with safety glass doors.

KITCHENS ARE equipped with electric built-in wall oven and range, range hood with fan and light, built-in automatic dishwasher, and a semi-automatic faucet dishwasher with aerator furni ture-finish natural ash cabinets and center guided drawers, and counters topped with handsome superamic tile in decorator colors.

Financing too, is expected to be a major attraction, Effinger said, for it offers "four way" terms. Full prices for Spring Park's beautifully appointed homes are from $22, 350 to $23,900. Flexible terms include VA loans with noth ing down except impounds and closing costs, Cal-Vet, and for non-veterans, conventional and FHA loans with the lowest down payments

Rossmoor Highlands Opening

Grand opening of Rossmoor Highlands located in nearby Los Alamitos is being continued today.

According to Stan Bell, sales agent, the preview showing acceptance of these homes has far exceeded expectation as advanced by the tremendous pre-sale volume and, last week's grand opening saw an overflow crowd.

Only 5 minutes from Long Beach State College, these homes offer 12 exteriors and feature Contemporary, Hawaiian Modern, Provincial and a host of other floor

Perhaps the most outstand-Highlands is the attractive financing program available to veterans. To the builder's knowledge, Rossmoor Highlands is one of the few developments where veterans may move into a $20,000 home for nothing down, Also available are very attractive conventional terms.

MODERATELY priced from $19,700, Rossmoor Highlands features lasting construction and includes many outstanding features such as: heavy shake or rock roofs, natural finish cabinets, Formica kitchen sink tops, custom designed fireplace and Tappan built-in range and oven.

The proximity of location is also very popular to Ross moor Highlands buyers. Less than 10 minutes from the Long Beach Marina, these homes offer easy accessibility to all modern conveniences such as shopping centers (right across the street) beaches, recreation areas schools, freeways, etc.

To visit the finished model homes, drive east on Carson Street from the North Long Beach area to Los Alamitos Boulevard (Norwalk Boulevard) turn right approximately 3 miles to entrance of Rossmoor Highlands at Bradbury Drive. From downtown area drive east on 7th Street (Garden Grove Boulevard) to Los Alamitos Boulevard, Turn left approximately ½ mile to entrance at Bradbury Drive.

Our But Buy in Town Town Why?

R. E. Plumleigh.

General Manager, Waldron Realty Company,

Santa Ana, California

The Story felund these Homes The Los Angeles Mirror first told the story, March 21, 1961: Tract 2511 is Santa Ana's ghost town. Unsold homes stand waiting for buyers after a complex financing muddie held up sales for over a year . . . Trust deeds were sold to service companies which created more trust deeds... resulting in a series of deeds that exceeded the value of

Now, at last, after a year of negotiating, the first mortgage holder has cleared up the titles and has instructed us, the real estate agents to: SELL THE MARK IX HOMES

We were also instructed to avoid fancy advertising or pretty pictures...but offer the homes at such low prices that a simple statement of facts would be enough. Here

How Many Mark IF homes are available? Only 140 homes of the original 185 are still left for sale. We received permission to sell these homes at special low prices only a few weeks ago—and before any advertising—the word got out—and many of the homes were snapped up by buyers.

What about Title? Purchaser's title will be protected by Security Title Insurance Company.

In what Condition are the Homes? Perfect. We have just invested many thousands of dollars making sure every home is in perfect condition. Some of the repairs we made are the kind that show up only after a home is a year old and usually are paid for by the new homeowner.

What Kind of Homes are they? The MARK IX HOMES are well built, quality homes with many expensive features usually found only in homes selling in the $20,000 class. For example, there are genuine hardwood parquet floors, genuine woodburning fireplaces, brick and stone planters, garbage disposals, acoustic plaster ceilings, ceramic tile kitchens, sliding door wardrobe closets, natural mahogany kitchen cabinets, cozy walipapered nooks, mosaic tile showers, Gaffers & Sattler built-in ranges and ovens and many other features.

Don't Buy any home until you see Mark TX

How Big are They? Every home has more than 1,300 square feet of living space. There are three floor plans to choose from. Plan 1 has 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Plan 2 has 3 bedrooms, family room and 2 baths. Plan 3 has 4 bedrooms and 2 baths. Every home has a large double garage, concrete walks and drives. As you can tell, these are not small, economy homes, but built well for gracious living.

What are the architectural Styles.

There are three styles: The Sayonara, The Copenhagen, and The Williamsburg. Each is a different interpretation of the contemporary and period look. We would like to show you pictures of these homes in this ad-as they are very attractive - but have been instructed to reduce the sales prices to rock-bottom...instead of spending money on expensive artist's renderings and luxurious printed folders.

Where are they focated? In the heart of Santa Ana, just minutes off the Santa Ana Freeway. The ocean is just a few miles away and is the source of the gentle ocean breeze that cools the air. Disneyland is nearby, and within walking distance are shops, and both public and parochial schools.

What one the prices? Every plan offers more than 1,300 square feet of living space. Any real estate man familiar with Santa Ana values will recognize the tremendous values in these homes. However, you can find out for yourself by checking the real estate section of this newspaper. You won't find any homes with over 1,300 square feet, quality built-ins like hardwood parquet floors and real fireplaces...and located right in Santa Ana... at these low prices. Sales Price

How to get there? Here are the easy driving directions: Take the Santa Ana Freeway. Turn off on Bristol St. and follow Bristol to Edinger St. Turn right on Edinger St. and follow to Fairview Road where you'll find the MARK IX sign.

Once in a lifetime buy Following our instructions we have presented the MARK IX HOMES to you without any fancy advertising talk or blown-up claims. We sincerely believe on the basis of more than 20 years of experience with So. Calif. real estate that these MARK IX Homes represent a once in a lifetime buy to families in the market for a quality home. Due to a series of unfortunate financial complications, the sale of these homes was delayed for over a year and now they must be sacrificed at below the market prices. Frankly, at these prices, we don't expect they will be on the market very long. Therefore, if you are a GI, may we suggest you bring your Discharge Papers with you so you can buy the home of your choice and not be disappointed on a return trip.

Best the rush 1 Frist Corne, Frist Served Our office will be open & AM, Sunday. In the interest of fairness, each person will be given a numbered card, so everyone will be taken care of in turn. Please—no speculators—we are asking all purchasers to sign an agreement that they will not re-sell the home for at least 90 days from the date of purchase.

Turn Back the Clock! The '20s Roar Again

IN AUTHENTIC costumes of the early 1920's, Sote Club members prove they plan to have a barrel of fun at their Roaring '20s charity dance Saturday at Lafayette Hotel and invite you to attend, too. Poised, apparently ready to break into "Charleston," is Mrs. Paul Krenwinkel (left), president. To illustrate that jazz will be hot, Mmes. Norman

Satisfying 26,000

By MARY NETH

Preparing a luncheon menu and few takers. for 26,000 youngsters from WHEN the "family" gath-6 to 18 is no snap. It's a two million dollar operation a year-with almost as many

But Miss Frances Williams, who directs the Long Beach Unified School District's central kitchen at 2700 Pine Ave., has it well under control.

Her only dilemma: how o answer the accusation -from adults-that the school menu is the same month-in, month-out.

Says she, "We are constantly working out new recipes that will appeal to the child, fit the budget and be practical to serve. * * * *

EVER TRY introducing a new dish to youngsters at home? Miss Williams gets the same thumbs-down response when something different appears on the menu of the city's 73 separate school cafeterias.

"Children have very definite tastes and they like to stick to the tried and true," says she.

Take for example the turkey pie recipe recently tried in the test kitchen, "It was delicious," says Miss Williams, "but the children just wouldn't go for it."

"To them," she explains, "turkey comes one waydiced on mashed potatoesand that's that." So far turkey served in any other efficient way to operate," ering around the table in- other cludes 33 per cent of all the Pine Ave, ramp where elementary school children, and more than 50 per cent of those in high school, the cook can't afford to displease too often.

"We try a new dish once or twice," says Miss Williams, "and if it doesn't go, we let it go. Sweet and sour pork has been one of several dishes not acceptedand finally discarded.

"What do the children like best? All time favorites are chopped steak on mashed potatoes, hamburgers, tacos. meat loaf and all things chocolate

"They dislike anything in a white sauce and for the elementary crew, what's bestest is what goes down fastest," says Miss Williams.

"That is why we cut their fruit in wedges," she explains. "They'll eat a cut-up apple but a whole apple never gets off the tray."

IT TAKES a staff of 370, who receive on the job training, to run the district's cafeterias. The staff includes conks, eight truck drivers and three food supervisors all headed by Miss Williams, who has a BA in food and nutrition and lots of experience in army and hospital cafeterias.

Why the central kitchen? "It's the most practical and watch on quality too."

All produce, meat and they are weighed and given a thorough check,

"The food is ordered and purchased on bid," says Miss Williams. "If the quality doesn't come up to our high standards back it goes," she

BY BUYING in huge quantities and taking advantage of government surplus, the Cafeteria Division is able to turn out balanced lunches for 30 cents a child. "That's cheaper than you can serve at home," says Miss Williams.

The menus are drafted six weeks in advance and prepared the morning before they are served. The first shift of cooks begins work at 4:15 a.m., the second group arrives at 9 a.m.

All the main work is done in the central kitchen with only addition of water to mixes and baking of premade doughs left up to the individual cafeterias.

"THE BUSES," says Miss Williams, "make three runs a day, and just like the U.S. Mail they always go through, rain or shine."

"It would be disaster," she explains, "if we were even a few minutes late. The school schedule would wind-up in a bottleneck with fashion has met with sneers says Miss Williams, "It en-class and recess periods ables us to keep a closer overlapping into a snarled mess.

> Seeing that this doesn't Williams' main worries. She's prepared for any emergency and has paper plates and quickie sandwich menus set-up in case electricity, gas or water should fail.

JUDGING HOW much food to prepare is another of Miss Williams' problems. "The number of children eating in the cafeteria usually follows a pattern," says she, "but every once in a while something happens and then we find we have too much food or not enough.'

As to left overs. Miss Williams doesn't plan for them at all. "We are more interested in being safe than saving pennies," says she. What is saved is refrigerated immediately after being returned to boiling temperature. Nothing is ever kept over more than one day.

"The goal of the whole operation," says Miss Williams, "is to present the child with a variety of foods while giving him a balanced meal containing one-third of his daily requirements."

Miss Williams' ambition is to see teenagers accept more vitamin C foods and the elementary set - well, she keeps on serving those green salads and hoping,

STRAWS IN THE WIND (SUN, TOO)

Local Men Blow Hot, Cold on Wearing Hats

By MARY ELLIS

Countless swains continue to set their caps for pretty damsels and politicians still throw their hats in the ring, then talk through them. But the question is: WHAT hat?

Because the bare facts are: fewer and fewer men wear toppers these days. In Long Beach, anyway. And city bigwigs (many of them heretofore hatless) are out to do something about it.

Step No. 1: Downtown Long Beach Associates has proclaimed May 1-6 Straw Hat Week and local merchants are giving top billing to spring-summer headgear, masculine-style.

SAYS VITO ROMANS, executive director of DLBA: "It's getting so a fellow can't even tip his hat to a lady -because more often than not, he isn't wearing one.

"Perhaps males should remind themselves these days. with femmes invading our every domain, that hats, down through the ages, have been a badge of authority."
Examples: the head chef, the military officer, the policeman, the scholar's mortar board.

"Let's declare 'Equal Rights for Men' and top it off with the badge of authority," says he. *

HOWARD JONES, suave manager of the Long Beach Convention and Visitors Burcau, admits he wouldn't be caught dead without a hat in New York or San Fran-

Then why not in Long Beach? "Because there's such a casual air about hat wearing here, I guess," says Jones.

"But I'll admit no man is truly well-dressed without a hat. And in the interest of developing a better, more cosmopolitan atmosphere for Long Beach, the answer certainly is more toppers for male shoppers-business ANOTHER do-as-I-say-not-as-I-do promoter of hat wearing among males is livewire Bill Boyd, crew-cut head of the Chamber of Commerce's International News

"A man wears a hat for three reasons," reasons he. "First, to keep his head warm-but it never gets cold in Long Beach. Second, to protect him from the heatbut it never gets hot in Long Beach."

(That's the Chamber of Commerce speaking, of

"Third, he sports a hat to look well-dressed for the occasion," says Boyd.

"And that's where Long Beach men should look to their laurels. We're known the world over as a vacation spot. Straw hats, of course, are popular attire for resort areas. SO-we should look the part, we should dress UP to our reputation!"

HOWARD DILL, men's department manager at Penney's, also has some remarks along this line. He reports 60 per cent of the men's hat sales in his department are of the fun hat variety.

These whimsical, vervy creations are just what the modern male ordered," says Dill. Sassy and new, they're decorated with martinis (synthetic, of course), golf tees, fish nets, grasshoppers and crawfish.

Dill recounts they first hit the market three years ago and "are definitely catching on, especially with the younger set. Who knows," says Dill, "men may get so accustomed to having their pates covered, the fun hat trend may influence them into dressier toppers."

ONE OF LONG Beach's nattiest dressers, Howard Amos of the downtown men's store by the same name, gives this fashionable slant to hats:

"The proper styles add stature to a short man, decrease the height of a tall man," he points out,

Tall crowns are easier to wear than platform soles for the pint-sized male, he notes, and wider brims (212 by 3 inches) appear to bring a man's height down to right-size.

Sid Larkin, well-dressed store manager of the Broadway, boasts a half-dozen or so hats in his wardrobe and wouldn't go across the street for coffee without his

His favorite: the telescope crown.

Chuck Price, division merchandise manager for men's and children's wear at Buffums', says brims are narrower than ever-some clipped to an inch and a quarter.

Newest look in straw, says he, is a silken Milan (has no silk, but has a shiny lustre). The most popular silhouette: the center crease; running a close second, the telescopic top.

And though the newest hats are lighter in weight, they're darker in tone, says he. Most popular colors: burnt ivy (medium grey), dark deep brown and castle grey, in that order.

AND WHAT do women have to say about men in (or out of) hats? To find out, we asked fashion-conscious Wilma Hastings, who for many years has been dedicated to dressing up downtown Long Beach. Says she: "I think every man should wear a hat! Today's styles are extremely becoming. A hat not only completes a man's costume and gives him a more businesslike air-it also makes him more exciting and ap-

So there you are, men. Don a topper and, prestol, you're completely dressed, a better advertisement for resort-area Long Beach, taller or shorter, more businesslike --AND more excitingly appealing to the ladies

If this is wrong, please help us decide what to do.---VERY ANXIOUS

Personally I'm on the side of the boy's grandparents, It seems to me both of you are too young and too unsettled to get married, Furthermore, His grandparents are dead why in the world should the grandparents buy him a car? If he's even thinking of getting married, he ought to think about earning money When I get out of school and buying things for himself -and his wife.

> But, as you say in other portions of your letter, you simply can't wait another year to get married. So I suppose you will marry, and I do hope you prove I'm all wrong in opposing the marriage until both of you know yourselves better.-M.M.

years to make things easier. But things grew worse and worse. So I tried staying bome, taking care of our three children, but this didn't help.

Then I started going out dancing, which I love, and this brought him home from the bar, and then things were better for a while. Then today, two months later, he says to me: "I'm going to get drunk," and walks out. For a while, you see, he's a perfect husband. But finally he goes back to the bottle, and all's ugly again. Can you help me?--W.W. DEAR W.W.:

Apparently your husband's a periodic drinker. Grand and sweet for weeks or months, then the thirst for the bottle gets him and he submerges himself in intoxication.

It's a pitiful situation, and really needs the help of understanding people. Is there an Alcoholics Anonymous organization in or near your

If not, appeal to your family doctor for guidance. Your husband is sick, I suspect, and needs sympathetic treatment --- perhaps both physical and mental.-M.M.

Sandra Sorrells Bride in Unitarian Ceremony

A late morning service in Unitarian Church of Long California and Washington Beach united in marriage Sandra L. Sorrells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Sorrells, 6222 F. Carita St., with George E. Morff of Santa Fe Springs.

The Rev. Russell Lincoln officiated before 150 guests. Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned with white Chantilly lace bodice and ivory silk skirt. Her bouquet held white roses and stephanotis surrounding gardenias. * * * *

LEADING the entourage were the bride's two small sisters Leslie and Carol Sorrells. Other members of the wedding party were Mrs. Frank Farmer, matron of honor; Herb Morff, best man; Gerry Minor and Bar-Hollen Ever since my husband maids; Joseph Preece and Donald Frakes Jr., ushers; Terry Wall and Bradley junior ushers; and Richard Selby, ring bearer.

Major & Minor Notes SWEET ADELINES SEEK TO 'HARMONIZE WORLD'

By RACHEL MORTON

We are all familiar with the Barber Shop Chord and the men's quartets known as the "Men Barbershoppers," who compete annually in our city. I must confess that I have never heard a barber shop quartet; nor had I heard. until the other day, of a like organization composed of women, who will give a concert Saturday night. May 13th, at the Municipal Auditorium.

Two of their members, Anne Martin, one of the charter members, and Winona Tait, who sings in one of the special quartets, called on me the other day and I learned a lot.

The organization is known as "Sweet Adelines, Inc." and is an international organization, divided up into "regions." Region II takes in all of Southern California and Arizona. There is a total membership of 10,000 in the United States and Canada. In the Long Beach chapter there are 40 active members, who meet every Wednesday in the Recreation Center at Ocean and Elm. They are sponsored by the Recreation Department.

THESE "GALS" work hard. They practice once a week from 8 till 11 p.m. under the direction of James McKee. They have neither piano nor printed music to learn by. When I exclaimed at this they told me that McKee sings the different harmonizing parts and at once the "girls' catch on. Their repertoire includes standard songs, folk songs, popular songs and jazz.

Said Anne Martin: "I have seen a quartet of girls in a corner for a whole evening trying to "lock" the harmonies.
Once they have them "locked," there is a shout of joy.
This procedure is called "woodshedding"! They harmonize ear in what is called a "trial and error" process.

They do not go in for solo voices, but for "blend." The four-part blend voices are tenor, lead, baritone and bass. At these rehearsals there is always 75 per cent attendance.

"The girls love to sing," said Mrs. Tait, "and we are recognized as a cultural and educational group." Their slogan is "Harmonize the World."

ONCE A YEAR the Sweet Adelines put on an international show in which the different chapters compete for prizes. Last year the international winners, the Yankee Misses, were presented on the Garry Moore show. In regional contests, the Long Beach Chapter has won first place twice and was a medalist four times. It is already making plans to bid for the international contest next year. were the Gibson Girls from Pennsylvania

Jobst Show Opening at Formal Reception

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Norbert Johst contemporary German painter, is be- pression in his still lifes: ing given a formal reception from 7.30 to 9:30 this evening at the Veltman Gallery. 5608 E. Second St., to which the public is invited. His work will be exhibited until-May 20,

Color is perhaps the most exciting characteristic of Johst's work to Southern Californians for the hold and vibrant palette of contemporary Europeans is something new to most of Jobst falls into the classification of a "neo-expressionist;" his hold line and strong recognizable forms are within the mode of the expressionists of this century's early decades. His expression is, however, invousand direct rather than morhid, tragic, violent and conthe anxiety of Munch, Nolde, and the other

German expressionists. "MUU MUU GIRL" among his still lifes and landscape is the only work with a human subject. Simply stated in flat patterned areas of intense color, out-lined in thick black, this

DEAR ABBY: What does it mean when a man calls you and asks you out constantly and seems to like you very much, but keeps telling you not to "get serious" because he doesn't want to "hurt" you?

"Mr. X" is a bachelor and has a lot to offer a woman (and he knows it). But it annoys me to hear that song and dance over and over again. Naturally, I would like to marry again some day (I am only 28) but I have had one bad marriage and am in no hurry to rush into what might be another one. Should I quit seeing "Mr. X" on the grounds that there is no future in it for me? Or should I keep dating him and see what happens?—LITTLE DIVORCEE WITH A BIG DECISION.

DEAR LITTLE D WITH A BIG D: If you are in "no hurry" to marry again, "Mr. X's" company is enjoyable, continue to date him. When a man warns he "doesn't want to hurt her"—chances are it is HE who is getting serious. But date others, too, just in case "Mr. X" is the one man in a million who really means what he says.

DEAR ABBY: My sister is going to be married soon. She wants to be married in white, but everyone tells her that she can't because she has been married before. She close a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HE hasn't been married before. What is proper?-SIS DEAR SIS: Your sister should NOT be married in white regardless of WHOM she marries.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor whom I love and respect. She is always making me little gifts which I cannot use (Scalloned crocheted lace doilies and centerpieces haven't been used for years.) Also, she likes to hand-paint ceramic ash trays, candy dishes and figurines. And you should see the wild colors she uses! Purples, oranges and lots of gold!

She is a frequent drop-in type visitor so I must keep her gifts out where she can see them or she will be hurt. Please tell me how to get around this problem.

—HATES TO HURT HER.

DEAR HATES TO HURT: Tell her you appreciate her thoughtfulness and generosity, but you already have more of her gifts than you can display. But if you "love and respect" her, do keep a few samples of her handlwork around for her to see.

Days of Forty-Niners STATER BRAD BENSON NAMED TO SCTA POST

Long Beach State's chapter of the Student California Teachers Association did a big promotion job for their college in last week's SCTA convention at Burlingame.

The vigorous campaigning had a lot to do with member Brad Benson's election to the important post of vice president of the state SCTA.

But SCTA is accustomed to doing things up big as can be seen from its membership of 580 strong-a total which makes it both the largest group on campus and also the largest SCTA chapter in the state.

Of course the campaigners are the first to admit that Benson, a long-time ball of fire and a well-liked guy in the statewide SCTA, gave them a very strong man to back.

Anyway, he will be busy during the coming year as the group's official host and coordinator of all the SCTA state committees.

Besides Benson, other Long Beach Staters at last week's convention included Louise Settlemyer, Ken Wiesemann, Elinor Gall, Diana Kronquist, Deanna Beach, Margaret Hilton, and adviser Owen Reince.

PHI LAMBDA CHI, pre-legal fraternity, presents Donald Caffrey, president of the Long Beach Barristers Club, as the featured speaker in tomorrow's "Law Dav" program.

The day is the first of what PLC prexy Bill Bennett hopes will be a long series of annual observances.

Incidentally, the mention of Bennett, and SCTA president Louise Settlemyer in the paragraph above, reminds us that these two have helped us a lot this year by doing a good job of keeping us posted on their group's activities. We hope they remind their successors to keep up the good

And as long as we are passing out pats on the back it is fitting that we note student hody president Bill Tilney's pioneering efforts with student opinion polls. His latest sounds out the campus on whether there are too many activities scheduled and whether fewer events would see better participation and/or attendance. The general opinion seems to be "yes" on both counts

SALE of the TRIANON GROUP by Broyhill

EGANCE IN TUNE WITH MODERN LIVING...

Aaron Schultz Furniture has made a special purchase of the famous Trianon Group at sensational prices. We would like to pass these savings on to you to celebrate the opening of our 37th Anniversary Sale.

Trianon is a romantic return to the neo-classic elegance of the styles of Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI. While reminiscent of these courtly designs, this new Broyhill Premier collection has an added freshness, grace and glamour all its own. Trianon is suave, sophisticated and, at the same time, warm, spirited and gay. It is furniture for today . . . finely proportioned and perfectly scaled for the smaller rooms of our houses and apartments. It is an impressive collection superbly crafted and finished. Trianon is designed for those who desire superior taste in a gracious style that is perfectly at home in both formal and informal settings.

OUR COVER

The youngsters who tagged along after the famous jazz bands as they played in the streets in the Old South got the name: "The second line." There is, and always has been, a second line in symphonic music, too, and this is one of the reasons why parents and a community are eager to get behind music activity such as the First Long Beach Music Festival, May 21-27 (see Page 7). The cover of Southland this week is illustrative of this second line in symphonic music. It was taken by Staff Photographer Bryan Hodgson who found the youngster sitting in the wings, waiting to "go on" at a recent concert of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra where young musicians were allowed to play alongside the regulars.

NEXT WEEK

Spring has arrived, which means that it's fix-up time around the house and garden—room additions, painting, new patios, a new water heater, fresh wallpaper, a workbench in the garage, perhaps a swimming pool, and heavens knows what else. For these fixer-uppers, Southland presents its Spring Home Improvement number next week. It will contain a multitude of ideas to make the home more livable and at the same time improve its appearance and dollar value. Be sure to watch for it.

Giant saguaro holds its accordion pleated arms aloft in desert vigil. When it blooms it's Indian New Year.

By Betty Hardesty

tus first blooms in May, the Pima and Papago Indians celebrate the New Year. The time is appropriate for a celebration because the desert blooms and the centuries old saguaros (suh-war-o) wear flowers in their hair.

Arizona's State flower, the saguaro, has a waxy petal of creamy white about 2½ inches in diameter with a yellow center. The sturdy, 2-inch stems cluster only on the very tops of the few branches. These giant cacti blossoms make an incongruous appearance jauntily perched as high as 50 feet above the desert floor.

SAGUARO BUDS make pretty perches for little elf owls at night when they emerge from their nests in abandoned woodpecker holes in the trunks. Sparrow hawks, martins and flycatchers also use these comfortable quarters while all the desert birds and mammals enjoy saguaro fruit which splits in June to show rosy pulp and black seeds.

In July, the Papagos and Pimas trek through the hot desert to harvest them. For centuries, the saguaro fruit has been an important source of food for these people. By making a long pole of cactus skeletons with a wire loop on the end they knock off the fruit. They then carry it in large clay ollas or gathering baskets to be dried or made into preserves, wine and sweetmeats. The seeds are ground up for jelly and cake. Saguaro cactus is also converted into building materials and drinking containers are fashioned from the woodpecker hole sections.

EXAMPLES of these things may be seen at the authentic Papago dwelling constructed by them on the grounds of the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum. The Saguaro Ramada is another spot of interest. Besides wax replicas of the flowers and fruit, there are growing specimens of various ages. Visitors learn there that saguaros grow only 4 inches in 10 years if they do not succumb to ants and birds. One may be 75 years old when 12 feet tall and a large one more than 40 feet and two centuries or more.

The old ones have weathered desert storms and often several years of drought. The moisture storing, accordion-pleated trunk and the specialized root system make this possible. Radial roots strike out horizontally just below the surface of the ground extend an equal distance to the plant's height. They anchor the plant but also send out tiny roots to gather moisture when it rains. These may grow and wither again in a few hours. Thus the saguaros are usually able to put on their white crowns of blossoms each spring for the Arizona Indians' New

99 Years in California

By Dorothy Severns

N MAY 1. John Wesley Gaines will celebrate his 99th birthday and begin the 100th year of life in California. Loved and held in high esteem by all who know him, Gaines is the traditional grand marshal of all parades, and the pride of his community.

He was born in Gilroy, Calif. When he was 9 years old, the Gaines family moved to Southern California to live in the vicinity of what is now Orange Ave. and Alondra Blvd.; he has lived near there ever since. His present home is with a daughter, Mrs. Beulah Schafer, at 80211/2 Alondra Blvd., in Paramount,

EAR MISS RULE: Would you give brief genealogy on CURRY. — M.H., Long Beach; B.W., Wilmington,

H.H., B.W.: CURRY'S celebrated clan ancestor was Sir Walter de Currie of Annandale, a town in Dumfries-shire, southeast Scotland. Ancient Viking chronicles tell in balladic poetry of Piers de Currie who fought valiantly against Norwegian invaders of Scotland and died in battle in 1263. Currie or Curry originated as a warrior title. Comra, for "spearman," Irish O'Corra descendants also altered their name to Curry. The Curry coat of arms has a silver "X" shaped cross below a rose on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze KELSCHE and KIELTSCH. — Mrs. J.H., J.K., Long Beach.

J.H., J.K.: KELSCH and KIELTSCH have a dual origin. These surnames refer to a 13th century ancestor or "cup and goblet maker." Parallel who was known as a "kelcher." Parallel name origin tracing reveals the meaning as "double-chinned one," a humorous medieval nickname. Kieltsch is also a nickname from Aegidius, an ancient pagan Roman given name with an unusual mean-"Under the protection of Minerva." No coat of arms is recorded for either family,

DEAR MISS RULE: Our name is NEVILLE.—A.B., Seal Beach, V.W., Long Beach.

A.B., V.W.: NEVILLE genealogy goes back to Gilbert de Nevil or Neuville, a companion-at-arms of William the Conquerer in the Norman French subjugation of Britain in 1066. De Nevil represented the family's home town in Normandy, called Neuville, meaning "new town." Gilbert de Nevil was granted estates in Lincolnshire, England, in the 11th century, Some of his descendants migrated to Durham, north England, where Ranulph de Nevill was summoned to Parliament in 1294. The surname was augmented to Neville in the 1400s. The Nevilles became Earls of Westmoreland in 1397. Their coat-of-arms has a silver St. Andrew's cross on a red shield. William Neville was recorded at Ipswich, Mass., in 1643.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on DE HART?-Mrs. F.D., Long Beach,

F.D.: DE HART is Dutch. This name has two sources. "HART" meant "red-deer," and was taken by a progenitor from a trademark picture of a red deer used to identify his place of business. De Hart can also refer to trademark picture of heart, used in the same way. The De Harts were granted a coat-of-arms at Hoorn, Holland, Their shield is silver, emblazoned with three symbolic red hearts portraying one origin of the

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief history on SHAW. -E.S., Artesia; T.S., Long

E.S., T.S.: SHAW is from the early north England and Scotch voic "Schagh" de-scriptive of a "small grove of trees" which characterized the Shaw memorial property. The titled branch of the Shaws were natives of Ayrshire, Scotland, Their coat-ofarms has three covered golden goblets in the center of

Here Come the Music Men

By George Eres

F FESTIVALS, there is no scarcity in the land.

There are festivals for the dance, for the seasons, for the harvests, for films and for music.

Sometimes, it seems the nation has festivals running out of its ears. Yet, they all fill a need.

Music festivals, for instance, Music happens to be a listeners' as well as a performers' art, which is a good thing for musicians. People besides the musicians are interested in performances and festivals are the result of this joint effort.

THERE ARE different ways of going about arranging music festivals.

A city, for instance, can buy a festival—as happened some years back in a financially well-heeled western city. But just having enough money to import musicians wasn't enough—the idea didn't jell and was dropped.

A city can stage a music festival with its own musical resources. Where an abundance of topnotch talent is available this is fine. But where, as is the case in most communities, large numbers of professionals or amateurs of professional ability, are not available, the worst sort of music horror

THERE IS A THIRD WAY-the route taken by the Long Beach Music Council when it decided to stage the first annual Music Festival here May 21 to 27. This is a combination of the first two methods. It has the advantages of the first and second, while avoiding their pitfalls and problems.

Going this middle route makes sense for Long Beach because it takes advantage of the tradition of musical life that exists here. This tradition in-cludes bringing to the city the best possible outside talent and utilizing Long Beach musicians of professional

The program for May 21 to 27result of a year's planning — reflects community-wide tastes and is at a level that is challenging in interest.

INCLUDED IN the events are:

Sunday, May 21-Long Beach Symphony Orchestra and Schola Cantorum, with one of the featured soloists Marilyn Horne, Long Beach soprano, now of national stature.

Monday, May 22-Dr. Stanley Chapple, head of the Music Department, University of Washington, speaking on "Music in the Theater" under sponsorship of the General Adult Division, Long Beach City Col-

One of the featured artists at the music festival will be Dr. Richard Elsasser, known as the "Paganini of the Organ," an RCA Victor artist.

rected by Dr. Leon Dallin, associate professor of music, Long Beach State College, in a concert featuring new works by area composers. The program is jointly sponsored by the Musicians Association Local 353, through a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund, Long Beach State College and the Music Council.

Thursday, May 25 - Tex Beneke and Ray Eberle and the Glenn Miller Orchestra, the Four Freshmen and The Modernnaires, sponsored by the stu-dent bodies of Long Beach State and City Colleges.

Friday, May 26—The Pro Musica Antiqua Quintet concert, featuring ancient musical instruments, sponsored by the Long Beach Museum of Art and the Los Angeles County Music Commission.

Saturday, May 27-The world femous Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, presented by Community Concerts Assn.

THE LONG BEACH Music Festival is unique in several respects. It brings together all the musical groups in the city, focusing a strong light on their efforts in a week of sustained activity. It brings to bear on the musical scene of the community the great outpour-ing of interest by official city bodies and organizations as well as individuals. It emphasizes an aspect of life in Long Beach that sometimes is forgotten-that there is a deep - seated cultural base to the community. It plays its part in the over-all American scene by meeting one of the problems basic to music life in this country.

This last factor may be illustrated by the biennial Festival Concert of the All District elementary schools at 7:45 p. m. May 17 in Municipal Auditorium - prelude to the Music Festival prop-

THE MANY YOUNG musicians participating-150 in the orchestra; 840 in 14 glee clubs; 65 first-year cello pupils and 180 first-year violin players plus the all-district band-will not all become professional musicians. But some of them will have the talent and the desire to continue in the field.

The continued health of musical activity in the city, insured by strong programs of performance, will give incentive to young musicians to con-tinue their activity. It is from these young people that the community orchestras come and it is from the communities—the grass roots—that our artists of national and international stature derive.

EN, WOMEN and juveniles who qualify for board and room at Long Beach's new city Jail will find that adequate preparations have been made for them.

This designed-for-the-confined area occupies a generous portion of the six-story Public Safety Building, although the structure also houses offices of the city prosecutor, public defender, and fire department administration; and, of course, the police department.

Jailer, Police Lt. H. H. Sweet, contrib. uted many ideas to the design of jail.

Preparations are adequate for those who qualify for board and room at new city hall.

Sixty-five per cent of the fourth floor is occupied by juvenile detention facilities. The fifth floor houses a complete women's jail and a maximum security area for male felons. Misdemeanor prisoners and jail administration are located on the sixth floor

The juvenile section provides complete separation from adults in detention. Ample room has been allowed for the housing of 40 boys and 40 girls, with proper segregation as to sex and

THE TANK ARRANGEMENT of cells for both women and male felons is the same. Each contains nine cells with two bunks in each cell. Considerable space at the end of each tank has been furnished with tables and benches, allowing room for limited recreation. Thirty-six heds are pro-vided for women and 54 for men. Each group has eight solitary cells. Separate infirmaries serve each of these two jails.

In addition to the inner-communication system, the women's jail has a special monitoring arrangement. This makes it possible for the officer on duty at this floor level to listen in and detect any disturbance that might arise.

The jail section for misdemeanor prisoners includes 126 beds, two drunk tanks, eight solitaries, three trusty tanks, an infirmary and a kitchen.

The drunk tanks differ from those containing felons in that they each contain six cells with four bunks to the cell. Space in the center with tables and benches is also provided for relaxing and eat-

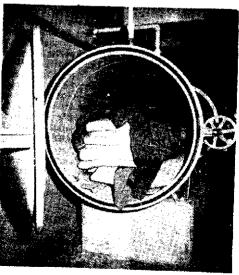

"Because the misdemeanor prisoner is not as dangerous as the felon, more men are permitted to be together," explained Lt, H. H. Sweet, jailer.

CELL DOORS CAN be operated manually or electrically. Both methods permit the opening of any one individual door or all may be opened simultaneously, including the one leading into the safety foyer. As a precautionary measure, the door leading from the foyer is unlocked manually and is not included in the "gang style" release of the other doors.

"The cell bars are solid homogeneous steel," says Lt. Sweet. "Even if hacksaw blades were changed every two minutes, 3,750 would be needed to complete one cut. If a bar were placed on 12-inch centers and a quarter-inch thrust used, it would bend only .015 of an inch when subjected to 8,000 pounds of pressure."

A blue or pink color scheme is used in the interiors of all solitary cells. Blue helps to control the "nervous and excitable" type. Pink aids in cheering the morose or those with suicidal tendencies.

In each group of solitary cells, two have the floor type toilet that can only be flushed from outside the room. This precaution has been taken because those prisoners frequently plug the out-lets which causes the floor to become flooded. Each of the other six solitaries contain a combination one-piece cast aluminum toilet, wash basin and drinking fountain. There are no loose objects to be banged against cell bars by dissatisfied in-

IN ACCORDANCE with the recommendation of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, there are no padded cells in the Long Beach city jail. It is felt that if the condition of a prisoner is such that he needs this type of protection, he does not belong in iail.

Food for the prisoners, including the Juvenile Division, is prepared in the kitchen on the sixth floor. It is then served from preheated carts. This eliminates waste. A prisoner may choose from the variety offered and usually eats all that he selects. Before the innovation of the heated carts, plates were pre-served and much food was wasted. Approximately 255,000 meals were served to inmates in 1959—average cost, 19 cents per meal.

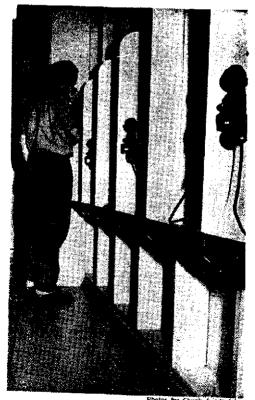

Decontamination of clothing and bedding is accomplished by placing the material inside a metal cylinder 10 feet in length with a diameter of 4½ feet. A vacuum is then created and sufficient amounts of methyl bromide are injected to achieve the desired results.

A building on the roof houses the disinfecting room, storage room and provides space for elevator and air conditioning machinery. The second floor contains an emergency radio room. A wired-in area nearby encloses a cooling-off section for water used in the air conditioning. The balance of the roof space is used for the exercising of mis-demeanor prisoners, and the regular airing of bed-ding. A surrounding wall, 15 feet high, hides the ding. A surrounding wail, 10 feet high, nides the view, but serves its purpose by reminding the prisoners that for the present this is home and they are not supposed to stray.

Long Beach Piggy banks help restore Columbia's

Little Red Schoolhouse

By M. D. Logan

LONG BEACH public school children and their teachers have dipped into piggy banks and pocket-books to help rescue the century-old schoolhouse at Columbia, in California's Mother Lode country.

Located two miles off State Hwy. 49 in the heart of the gold-rush country, this educational institution took in children and turned out students from 1860 until 1937, when a newer school moved in on the territory. Forced into retirement, the aging building stood rejected for 18 years, windows boarded up and woodwork erumbling. Only its memories remained unchanged. The venerable school was still proud to have been one of the few shreds of culture in the gold-grabbing community that once supported such establishments as 30 saloons, 143 faro games and a bull and bear fighting arena.

Much like a character in today's westerns, the red two-story school-house became involved in a struggle with the "Bad Guys"—namely time and the elements. Even though the building was of brick construction, it was fast becoming but a skeleton of its former self. However, just in the nick of time, the "Good Guys" arrived, in the form of the California Teachers' Assn.

THE SCHOOL came to the attention of CTA after California purchased Columbia lock, stock and barrel in 1945, with long-range plans to restore the town for use as a State Park. To help speed up the wind-creaking town's rejuvenation, various groups stepped in to help. The California Masonic Lodge had the original Masonic Hall rebuilt. Stockton's College of the Pacific now maintains the old Fallon House Theater, where during the summer, students stage melodramas in tune with the Old West. Some five years ago, the CTA decided to adopt the orphan schoolhouse as a worthy statewide project for both teachers and pupils. As the sticky coins and the limp folding money mounted up in school collection boxes, the donors felt justly proud to be shareholders in a shrine to California's public education.

In Long Beach, two fund-raising drives were beld in this ancient build-

In Long Beach, two fund-raising drives were held in this ancient building's behalf, stimulating the children's interest in the romance of yesterday as teachers told of the school's historic past.

ONCE THE PRIDE of Columbia, with its 3,400 square feet of floor area, the school was one of the finest buildings ever erected in the Mother Lode country. Considering that the structure cost $4,898 in 1860, early Columbians would never believe to-day's demand of $60,000 to restore their schoolhouse. Of this staggering amount, students and teachers contributed the largest portion — some $52,000!

This monument to learning celebrated its 100th birthday last year by reopening to the public and now stands ready to show off such nostalgic features as the wooden pump organs, cast iron desks and potbellied stoves. All necessary reconstruction work was executed by the State Divisions of Architecture and Divisions of Beaches and Parks. At the present time, the school door stands open each weekend to welcome many of the 500,000 travelers who visit Columbia Historical State Park yearly. By utilizing the sharp memories of former pupils, the two classrooms, cloakrooms, teachers' room and outdoor necessities are all authentically arranged. Looking toward the shed-like three-compartmented outhouse, complete with crescent-windowed doors, one of the many younger visitors piped, "Is that where the kids kept their bikes?"

EARLY FURNISHINGS of the schoolhouse came from far and near.

The curlicued-iron desks for the second floor were purchased for $400. These "child-traps," of eastern manufacture, labored around the Horn by ship. The seating needs of the first-floor primary department were cast in the nearby Sonora Foundry for 10 cents a pound.

When the educational building was almost ready to open, the cupota was still embarrassingly empty. Finally the town decided to throw a community party to raise money for a bell. As the last of the pies, doughnuts and cakes were digesting, the kitty showed a profit of $103. The following day, however, every last penny was gobbled up by the dedication festivities! Several hundred tardy scholars later, a clanging giant was finally obtained.

Built in 1857, the Wells-Fargo office still boasts its intricate wrought iron balcony, shipped from Iroy, N. Y., in Columbia's boisterous bayday.

Is Trouble Headed for Paradise?

By Bob Thomas

NEXT MONTH, jet airliners will touch down on the fabled isle of Tabiti for the first time, The almost certain result: Trouble in paradise.

The arrival of the jet age may rank in importance with the coming of Tahiti's discoverer, Capt. Wallis, in 1767. It means that Tahiti will be less than nine hours distant from the U. S. West Coast.

By July, seven scheduled jets can bring a thousand visitors a week. Sixty liners will dock here in 1961, compared to 35 in 1959. Yachts arrive in increasing numbers from all ports of the world.

Can Tahiti take the invasion?

Many there think not. They fear the passing of this earthly paradise that has captured the fancies of Cook, Bougainville, Darwin, Stevenson, Gauguin, Melville, London, Nordhoff and Hall, and the dreams of all men who crave escape from an over-civilized

OTHERS SEE tourism as the salvation of the islands' ailing economy, (Phosphate deposits are being depleted. detergents have depressed the copra market and vanilla prices are also down.)

But even the biggest boosters agree that Tahiti is not ready for the advent of the jets, and chaos may result.

These views were gathered from talks with many island figures, including the new governor of French Polynesia. Aime Grimeld, a steel-eyed man with will to match. All are concerned with the coming wave of tourists.

Today, Tahiti has beds for 200 visitors. By July, the fig-ure will be doubled. But there still won't be half enough hotel rooms for the jet's capacities. What went wrong?

OBVIOUSLY THE airlines moved at a faster speed than Tahiti could manage, Until last April, airliners had to land at Bora Bora, 150 miles away, and passengers were transported by seaplane to Tahiti. The new airstrip, 11,900 feet, is long enough to accommodate the jets.

Why aren't more hotels being built?

Some Americans claim that French officialdom -places barriers in the way of outside investment. The French reply they would welcome legiti-mate investors, but most of the dealers are get-rich-quick sharpies

THE FRENCH SAY that one out of 100 investors is really interested in staying and helping the country. The others try to make deals between planes.

Buying Tahitian land is not easy in any case. Because of confused parentage, 100 persons might be entitled to one piece of land. Straightening this out takes time. And the government aims to protect the people from exploitation, It represents 100 isles besides Tahiti, and the others must not suffer because of the one among them that is a tourist attraction

Will Americans like Tahiti? Some don't. There are those who find the accommodations primitive, recreation limited and the scenery monotonous.

"Tahiti is meant for the specialized kind of tourist," said one official, "Those who like the comforts and attractions of Las Vegas and Miami Beach will be appalled with Tahiti."

SAID ANOTHER: "Americans like to pay their money before departing and be taken to stick among themselves. You can't see Tahiti that way." on conducted tours. They like Indeed you can't The way to see Tahiti is to get away from the tourist traps and see island life as it really is.

Some Americans may be bugged by recalcitrant plumbing and electricity that flashes off and on. And there are cockroaches and spiders and lizards ("Don't kill them, you are told, "They won't harm you, and they eat the mosquitoes.")

Then there are the girls. Girls here are true children of nature and if they like a man, they simply move in. They just as easily move out, says one American,

"AND SO THE GIRLS go on from one love affair to another," said the local fellow, "Each one is serious at the time, and it is sad to see them say farewell to the tourist leaving on the ship or plane. But there is always another ship or plane coming

What will tourism do to Tahitian life?

Already there is evidence of the cheapening of native customs by the white man's invasion. Alcoholism is the No. 1 social problem. Tipping is frowned upon as unTahitian. But Americans (64 per cent of the tourist population) are beginning to leave tips, with resultant loss, some claim, of Tahitian self-respect

One high official hopes that such tendencies will be forestalled by the attraction of a better class of tourist. What will manage this? "Prices," he said.

TAHITI IS NO bargain vacation, Good hotels are on a par with American ones ($10 up) and food is also comparable in price, since most of it is imported from New Zealand, France and Ameri-

Despite prices, cockroaches and inconveniences, Tahiti is a great experience for the sensitive visitor. The lushness of the scenery is almost unbelievable. There are black, solitary beaches for swimming. But the greatest attraction is the people.

They are a lovely racechild-like, unspoiled, friendly without being shy or self-conscious. It is disheartening to think of their kind vanishing.

Still unmoved by the fast approaching jet age, native girl of Tahiti sits in serene contemptation at water's edge. Next month, jet airliners start flying to Tahiti.

In 1846, this regiment was sent from New York to California in the ship Sou Loo, Gaines' grandmother and his mother, Mary Margaret, were among the passengers of women and children who accompanied them in the ship, Susan Drew. His mother celebrated her fourth birthday aboard ship as they rounded the Horn, Near the coast of South America, the ships were separated and driven hundreds of miles off course by a storm.

Gaines' father, John Wesley Gaines, Sr., came to California from Kentucky by covered wagon in 1850 and he settled in Hangtown, now called Placerville.

FROM THE DAYS of gay fiestas and long working hours to the present atomic age, Gaines has seen the amazing growth of Southern California since the first transcontinental railroad, the Union Pacific, in 1869. He has been an active leader in this district, and was a member of the school board of which he was president for many years.

He planted the first grass on the school grounds of the Lincoln School in Paramount, and the beautiful flowers, shrubs, and trees of the Roosevelt and Lincoln Schools were all planted by him.

In 1952 an elementary school was built at Jackson and Garfield Ave. It was named the Wesley Gaines School and dedicated to the man who has done so much for the children of the community. He has planted many trees at the school, even as recently as Arbor Day (March 7, 1961) when he planted a tiny Spruce here. This was a ceremonial occasion which no one enjoyed more than John Wesley Gaines.

The home consists of a large living room with an open kitchen to the rear left, two bedrooms, and a bath-room, but the clever architectural design (created by the owners) gives the illusion of space even though the place is not large, Subdued striped carpeting throughout adds to the feeling of spaciousness, as do the beamed ceilings.

THE DECOR is Early Amer-Ican, and the ingenious use of small, inexpensive pieces accumulated over the years gives the home its distinction. The total effect is warm and

A formica bar extends diagonally across the left rear of the living room with the open kitchen in back, Below the bar on the kitchen side is the sink, hidden from view; then the stove, working area, and refrigerator, as well as ample cupboard space, combine to make the kitchen completely functional.

A toast colored couch backs against a large picture window in the front of the living one side is a raised brick fireplace and mantel, and at the far end (near the kitchen) is a drop-leaf dining table of Salem maple. A large gold-framed mirror ornaments the area above the fireplace, A particularly handsome green and clear crystal vase (that resembles a lamp) is on the mantel.

KNICKKNACK shelves line the entire room at the top of the walls, tastefully decorated with small cups, vases, jugs and similar items.

The master bedroom has a four-poster bed and a large mahogany chest of drawers, with two double closets. On either side of the chest are two wall "pictures" worthy of mention: a full-sized china platter is framed with a wide china frame creating a threedimensional effect since the picture is recessed into the frame.

One room is practically furnished for a young, growing boy.

The Day That Once Was Mad

Happiness of May Day is captured in this scene at All-City May Festival in 1960 in Bixby Park. Costumed Somerset Park group dances about, weaving a May pole.

By V. Franklin Limerick

THERE WAS a time that May 1 was the "maddest, merriest" day of the year, to quote from "The May Queen." written in 1883, by the English poet, Alfred Tennyson.

Since that date the fun parties have died out. The harmless hilarity of this holiday passed into the limbo of other zestful but wholesome pastimes of more provincial times.

Currently, charming but decorous programs are present-ed—in outdoor sports. Colorfully costumed youngsters participate in traditional dances, skipping about a flower festooned May Pole, winding and weaving long streamers.

Noma Popilius, second ruler of Rome (715-672 B.C.) is accredited with instituting the original rites in honor of two deities. Maia, the goddess of spring, and Flora, mythical queen of the flower world.

DESPITE the fact that the ceremonies were supposed to be of a religious nature and were for the purpose of paying tribute to symbols of beauty and tranquility, there were debaucheries of cruelty and violence. The high spots of the day were brutal contests between unarmed war captives and wild animals.

Down through the centuries the grim aspects of the celebrations were gradually replaced by beautiful festivals and light-hearted merrymaking. In medieval and modern times in England, activities on May Day were a joyous be selected queen, crowned in a bower of flowers and to reign for a glamorous day was something for the local beauties to dream

The giddy antics of May Day celebrants were banned by the Puritans of "Merrie Old England"; they classified the tomfoolery as "heathenish" and too closely akin to the barbaric antics of the pagans. But in the bleak days of early America, observing cheerful exuberance was a welcome diversion in an amusement-starved era.

The pleasureable practice of secretly gifting friends and nieghbors with home-made baskets filled with goodies with home-made and fresh flowers was a commendable custom, a sort of trick-or-treat arrangement in reverse

This happy little chore was usually alloted to the small fry, Artistic, deft little girls and sheepish clumsy little boys fashioned containers of available materials. Leaves, vines and bark were collected; tinfoil, bright paper, ribbon, lace and colored string were hoarded for the project. Scraps of wallpaper left over from various do-it-yourself decorating jobs was the favorite for lop-sided, flour pastesmeared masterpieces

THEN CAME the time to deliver the tokens of goodwill Eager little boys and skippy little girls whispered and giggled as they surreptitiously brought offerings to doorways, knocked or rang, ran to the nearest hiding place to watch developments.

Secret presentation of the May basket to one of the opposite sex was a wordless declaration of affection. The guess-who angle was the delight of the pre-teen set.

In any cases, it was strictly against the rules to get caught delivering the tribute. tiptoeing up on the porch to hang it on the door knob was an important part of the

Crawdads Are for

UNTING and Africa are synonymous, yet Africa is the only continent in the world where the elusive Cambarus virilis has never been found. But in the Long Beach area there is a hunting ground for this European delicacy.

However, hunters here are few; perhaps because Americans seldom eat them, except in the cities where Europeans have emigrated. Boiled live. and peeled like shrimp, the tails make delicious salads and cocktails. In some localities where rivers, streams, and lakes abound, youngsters enjoy catching these delightful creatures. But Long Beach youth are generally unaware of their existence,

Most persons have heard the more familiar names . . . crayfish . . . crawfish . . . or "crawdad."

Three such uninformed skeptics were junior high students Steve and Gary Hawes, and Bob Fulkerson. They not only questioned the existence of the "crawdad," but completely ignored instructions as to the proper wearing apparel for "crawdad" hunting.

Thus, when our party arrived early one morning at the park where the writer is the director, a honk of the auto horn brought out the 'well-dressed threesome with a mad dash, Two were wearing brand new shoes. The other was wearing short boots . . . but hardly covering the cuffs of his good pants. Their greetings were typical. "Dibs on the front window". "I get the rear speaker"..."I'm next to the driver...."

THE BEDS of the rivers and creeks that flow south through Los Angeles, Comp-ton and Long Beach to the sea and the waters of various sloughs are the domain of the crawdads. We chose a narrow branch of one of the creeks.

As we peered into the water, the questions began to fly.

"What do they look like?" ... "How do you catch them?" ... "Do they bite?"

We explained that they were fresh-water lobsters, but would be no longer than six inches; that they have six walking legs which move them forward, and little swimmerettes, appendages under-side the body; that they breathe by propelling water into the gills, where they take oxygen out of the water, and then give off carbon dioxide. But, when in danger, they propel themselves backwards by flicking the tail rapidly. We also pointed out that they had two claws with pinchers; but if they were picked up just behind the claws, there would be no problem of pinching

We left the bank and began to wade slowly upstream.
Gary walked bravely right behind. Bob yelled that the water was too cold. Steve tried a fish pole, line, and old meat for bait (being scavengers, crawdads will eat almost anything). Suddenly Steve saw movement on the creek bottom and shouted, "there's one!" Gary rushed to the spot and the "thing" disappeared under a rock. We cautioned the boys to work slowly, to let the water clear, and to attack from the rear,

"I'VE GOT ONE," Steve shouted, as he plunged his hand into the water and brought up . . , a claw! We

Tip on Bulbs

Most gardners know that top growth of faded bulbs should not be cut back until it dries off, but many of them don't know what to do about it. There's no reason that you have to live with the bulbs during this ripening process.

Dig a trench in some outof-the-way spot and lift the bulbs, keeping a shovel-full of earth around them. Then "plant" them in the waiting trench and let them die down at their leisure. Keep them watered

Even Honeymooners Find La Jolla Idyllic!

By Fred Taylor Kraft

A FEW years ago a hometown product, Max Miller, wrote a book about La Jolla (pronounced La HOY-ya). He called it "The Town With the Funny Name."

La Jolla, then a sleepy village, has been on the map ever since.

Renowned for its scenic and restful atmosphere, its luxurious hotels and motels and clean, white-sand beaches, La Jolla has mushroomed into a bustling resort city.

World travelers pause in La Jolla. Honeymooners find it idyllic. And weekend pleasure seekers, like you, flock there to swim, surfboard, sunlaze on the sand, eat in exotic restaurants, visit its distinctive shops and museums, and live it up in the quiet but cosmopolitan atmosphere.

THERE ARE MANY things to see in and around La Jolla: the famous Scripps Institution of Oceanography, with its aquarium and museum; La Jolla Beach and Tennis Club; Art Center; and Torrey Pines State Park

Ten miles up the coast is Del Mar and its race track; a few minutes' drive south is San Diego, with its Balboa Park and zoo and countless metropolitan attractions; and Tijuana, 35 miles south, with its old-world atmosphere, bazaars, bull rings, jai alai, and horse racing.

Thirty-five miles northwest (5 miles north of Escondido) is the Golden Door Beauty Ranch, an exquisite resort for women. It is here that women are guaranteed slenderizing through a combination of rest diet and exercises at rates up to $425 a week

LA JOLLA IS LOADED with fine hotels, motels and apartments. Among the flossiest are La Jolla Beach Club Apartments at 2000 Spindrift; Casa La Jolla Apartment Hotel, 555 S. Coast Blvd.; La Jolla Riviera Apartments, 2031 Paseo Dorado; La Valencia. 1132 Prospect St.; and Royal La Jollan Motel, 2402 Torrey Pines Rd. But there is a motel or hotel in practically every price range, and there are trailer parks and country clubs, too!

La Jolla is noted for its restaurants. Here are a few, recommended to us, and we pass the list on to you: Jamar Dining Room, 5786 La Jolla Blvd., with dinners from $2; La Valencia Hotel, 1132 Prospect, dinner from $3.25; Marine Rooms, 2000 Spindrift, dinner from $2; Rudy's Hearthside, 5530 La Jolla Blvd., piano bar and entertainment and dinner; Tarantino's, 1020 Prospect, Italian specialtics; and Anthony's Fish Grotto, 886 Prospect, a moderately priced spot serving seafood exclusively.

We think you will find La Jolla restful, entertaining, de-

GOING PLACES with the Sloanes

NQUISITIONS that would try the patience of a Job and test the nerves of an iron man lie in back of the pilots who fly the jet planes that carry the world's travelers. Because no one would want to fly with a crew that wouldn't know what to do if a dangerous situation should arise, every airline puts its cockpit people through such ordeals.

The tests take place in a diabolical machine known as a simulator, which reproduces every flight condition imag-inable and does everything but fly. An instructor keeps pilots under such pressure that a real flight will be kiddycar driving by comparison.

There has been no instance of an engine fire in a commercial jet, for instance, yet every pilot knows what to do should there be one. A situation where a pilot is unable to land at his destination but hasn't enough fuel for an alternate field is all but unthinkable. Yet every experienced flier has such problems thrown at him in simulator "flights" to test his ability to cope with them

THE SIMULATOR is a precise, functioning reproduction of an airplane cockpit. To the rear is a panel known as a "trouble console." Behind Behind it are 500 miles of wiring and 1,000 tubes which, instead of transforming the pilot's movements into the physical forces that fly an airplane, translate into computers the electronic squiggles that show how he would be flying if he really were flying.

In the simulator an instructor can present crewmen with situations that would be difficult, not to mention dangerous, to reproduce in a real airplane. The pilot's only experience in dealing with them may be in the simulator.

On the trouble console are witches, dials and knobs that can pull the flying carpet out from under the pilot with make-believe fires, bad landings and even crashes. There's even a sound knob which can be turned up by the instructor operating the console if it registers crash.

BUT MOST of the time it's unnecessary. Pilots before get into a simulator, have had years of piston experience, a home study course

Oriental Bazaar

Khan al-Khalili, the great oriental bazaar in Cairo, is a treasure house of the best of medieval craftsmanship set in the heart of a group of Isla-mic monuments. It is celebrated for its incised and inlaid copper, fine porcelains, rugs and carpets in neverending variations of color and design, bright-colored slippers, hammered silver, ebony and ivory ware, ornaments of gold, silk rugs, leather craft, brocades, amber and precious stones.

on jets, and three weeks of ground school. Before they can operate scheduled flights they spend up to 25 hours in the simulator and 20 hours in flight training, and must pass batteries of government and company checks which draw the process out to as long as seven months.

All we know is that, of the last two times we jetted into Idlewild, one was in a snowstorm and the other in a sleetstorm. On neither occasion did the trouble console light up,

Al Garage Lauriston, 94 Rue Lauriston in Paris for Vespa (Italian) scooters. Imbernotte, 1 Rue des Accasias for bicycles. Bicycles seem to be for rent in nearly all the vacation areas of France. And all large towns have scooter rentals.

"Any advice you can give us on tipping in Italy? Such as unusual tipping customs we wouldn't know about."

Tip just about the same as you would in the U.S. Except all over Europe it is customary to tip movie and theater ushers. In Italy, 50 lire (8 cents, about) for movies, 100 lire in theaters.

Tip hairdressers and barbers 10 to 15 per cent. Porters and bellboys get 100 lire per piece of baggage.

Service charges are on your hotel bill and restaurant a check. The 10 per cent restaurant charge can be buosted by leaving 50 to 100 lire per person. Leave a couple of hundred for your chambermaid. Tip the bellboy 100 per service call. And give the concierge a couple of hundred when you leave.

Guides are usually tipped. But when you do, figure that he got 15 per cent (and maybe more) on everything you bought while he guided you into the right shops.

If you ride the bus, tip the girl stewardess. (The bus company, CIAT, assures me this is not necessary. But 1 think it is acceptable.)

". . . undecided which is better: to rent a car in Europe or to buy one."

The AAA has the best answers on e S driving cars in Eu-rope—including an excellent book "Travel Guide to Eu-rope."

Hertz International has the answers on car rentals and can set it all up for you in advance. (One advantage being that you set up here where you speak the language.)

The rough rule is under three months, rent the car. Over three months, buy it on the buy-and-sell-back plan offered by many overseas agencies.

(The first driving depreciation on a new car has to be spread over several months to make it worthwhile.)

butes are not employed here.

Peru, for instance, is mighty careful of cormorants. That country's off shore islands are gold mines of guano-the accumulated droppings of cormorants over the years that run to hundreds of feet in depth. The fertilizer is mined as a big business. The same thing could happen on the west coast, except for the fact that our off-shore islands get rain that washes away the guano before it can accumulate in commercial quantities.

The ability of the cormorant as a fisherman has been utilized by man in various countries. In the past, the English trained the birds to fish. In China today, the birds are taken when young and are used to fish for their masters. The Chinese put rings around the birds' necks loose enough to allow breathing, but tight enough to prevent swallowing. Chinese fishermen usually have three or four cormorants, kept on strings, and employ them to bring in catches. The caught fish are squeezed out and the birds are rewarded by smaller erman's nets at 90 feet depth. Quite numerous on the west coast and elsewhere, the birds breed in the spring. They colonize on the offshore islands and breed in seaweed nests on steep cliffs where dogs, cats and humans can't get to them. The young squabs reportedly are edible, but the grown birds are said not to be fit for human consumption.

Three species are found on the West Coast, according to specialists at the Los Angeles County Museum. They are the Brandt (bright blue throat patch); Double Crested (orange throat patch) and the smaller Baird (white feathers on each flank). From afar they give the appearance of being black, but actually are a rich metallic green and purple.

Even though they can be kept on a string and used as fish hooks, they have been no reports of cormorants being kept as pets in this area. The expert opinion is that they are not very bright birds.

panes of glass prevent con-tact between "insider" and "outsider," but the object of each one's affection is clearly visible.

One distinct feature in the handling of prisoners is by vehicular ramp to the first basement level. Here an automatic door offers easy access to the booking desk. A pris-oner elevator then takes them to the upper floors. From the lower basement, a tunnel ex-tends for 400 feet south to the County Court Building. It permits the transfer of prisoners by foot from one building to the other.

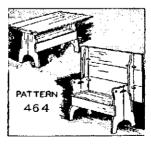

LT. SWEET was among those vitally interested in preconstruction plans for the new jail. For two years and at his own expense he devoted most of his spare time studying new installations and various systems. He visited every jail five years old or less in the United States and some jails in Canada. Many of his ideas were incorporated into the new Public Safety Building and jail system.

"Every city has its individual problems in the confinement of prisoners," says Lt.

Clay saucers, which are available at florists and garden and variety stores in a variety of sizes to match your red clay flower pots, should be used to insure proper watering. The saucers hold the excess water that drains through the pots and are easy to empty, a job that should be done within half an hour after you've watered your plants.

Cocoa with peppermint swizzle sticks goes well with chocolate-mallow brownies for any children's party.

FOOD

Kid's Party Delight

By Mildred K. Flanary

REFRESHMENTS that will be a happy choice for a youngsters' party are choco-late-mallow brownies and cocoa with peppermint swizzle sticks.

Cocoa is good for the small fry, too, for party or after-school snack. Instant sweetmilk cocoa contains whole milk is vitamin and iron enriched and can be made by just adding hot water, Extra nourishment is gained by using hot milk instead of water. The peppermint stick is an extra party touch.

For the brownies, use a jumbo package of chocolate morsels, half for the brownies batter and half for melting and pouring over the mallow topping of the brownies. Heat from the fresh-baked brownies will melt the marshmal-lows if they are added as soon as the cookies come out of the oven.

Here are the recipes:

Chocolate-Mallow Brownies

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup shortening tablespoons water
- 1 12-ounce jumbo package (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels.
- divided teaspoon vanilla

- 1 cup sifted all purpose
- teaspoon soda
- teaspoon salt
- cup chopped nuts cups miniature marshmallows
 - teaspoon shortening

Combine sugar, shortening and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil: remove from heat. Add 1 cup of the semi-sweet chocolate morsels and vanilla. Stir until smooth, Beat in eggs one at a time. Sift in flour; soda and salt. Add nuts. Mix until blended. Turn into a greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in a moderate oven (325°F.) 25 minutes. Immediately cover top with miniature marshmallows; cool in pan. Melt remaining 1 cup chocolate morsels and 1 teaspoon shortening over hot (not boiling) water; pour over marshmallows, spreading if necessary. Chill. Cut to 11/2 YIELD: 25 inch squares brownies.

Cocoa-Mint

- 11/2 cups instant sweet mak cocoa
 - I quart hot water
 - 6 peppermint sticks

Place instant sweet milk cocoa in a pitcher. Gradually stir in hot water. Pour cocoa into cups or mugs. Stir with peppermint sticks. Yield: 6

COLUMBIA became a town in the roisterous Mother Lode thanks to the help of a cooperative cloudburst. At this site in March 1850, a deluge held up a group led by Dr. Thaddeus Hildreth. Later while waiting for their be-longings to dry, the men prospected on a nearby hill. They hit the jackpot! The ney hit the jackpot! The first few days produced over 40 pounds of gold. With the "grapevine" in excellent working order, 6,000 miners had taken up claims within six weeks. By 1853, Columbia was the third largest city in California with a population Amazing strikes of 15,000. were recorded there, such as that of a grizzled prospector who uncovered a 132-pound chunk of gold worth $28,000. During about a 10-year per-iod, $87,000,000 worth of gold was shipped out of town, to "Gem of the Southern Mines.

At the time California purchased Columbia it was considered one of the state's best preserved "ghost towns." Oddly enough, its long-lasting qualities are largely the result of major fires in 1854 and 1857. Original "cracker box" structures were gradually replaced with buildings of adobe, stone and brick. The schoolhouse was the last of these sturdy structures to go up. By 1860, the mad quest for gold was about over. The vultures had swooped down and were in the final stages picking the hills clean of their wealth. The town heaved a sigh of relief and settled down to become just another rural community.

TODAY, AFTER its long rest, Columbia is eagerly greeting another rush of people-armed with cameras in-stead of Colt revolvers. Board walks and dusty streets wander through several blocks of captivating buildings. The fire house contains two engines, one a hand pumper built in Boston in 1850. An old print shop welcomes kibitzers and some establishments, including the general store, offer bottles of sarsaparilla for dry throats. The refurbished Columbia House stands ready to serve up such "vittles" as ham steak with red-cyc gravy and miners-style brown beef stew. Inside the fireproof iron doors of the Wells-Fargo office browsers may inspect such oddities as the scales that weighed out $50,000,000 worth of gold dust. And looking down on the town from its perch atop Cemetery Hill, the historic schoolhouse stands secure-a symbol of worthy achievement by your children and their teachers.

A Trip Down the Mississippi

By Vera Williams

Pulitzer Prize winner for his "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters," has written a hilarious and hair-raising adventure novel in "A JOURNEY TO MATECUMBE" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) to be published this week.

Davy, 13, of Hanksville, Ky., "a perfectly decent, sensible town, county seat too, except they had a law where you had to go to school until you were 15," narrates a trip down the Mississippi from Kentucky to Key West a decade after the Civil War.

Davy, his Uncle Jim and a Negro servant Zebediah traveled by rowboat, houseboat, paddlewheel steamer, horse, Indian canoe and pirate ship, and their adventures include fights, killings, kidnapings, impersonations, leprosy, snakes, hurricanes, smuggling, wrecking and a treasure hunt—enough for any adult or juvenile reader!

They rescue Dr. Snodgrass, medicine show operator, from being tarred and feathered. The Doc, it seems, had ladled half a bottle of his leprosy cure into a man suffering from delirium tremens and the man died, probably out of spite, as Uncle Jim said.

"A Journey to Matecumbe" provides a detailed picture of the life of the period, habits and history of Indian tribes, farming in the Matecumbe of the 1800s, geography of the Mississippi and a hurricane in the Keys.

PERSONS INTERESTED in the history of automobiles and those who seek collector's items will enjoy "EARLY MOTOR CARS, 1904-1915," by George A. Oliver, the first American edition (limited to 750 copies) which has been made available through the Stephen Greene Press, Brattleboro, Vt., at $20 per copy.

Twelve veteran cars which captured the fancy of people all over the world have been faithfully reproduced in delightful colors and Oliver has painted faithful word pictures to accompany the works of art. The cars have been depicted at a ratio of one inch to the foot. They look so natural you can almost feel the end of the ladies' scarfs whipping against your face as the cars chug along at breakneck speed of 20 miles an hour.

The author-artist has provided accurate details and background to delight the expert and feed the artistic; that's why the first edition appears headed for the collector-item category.

FRANK MORLEY, looking on portions of the Roman-Wall among modern postwar

HE THING that got me about Shanghai in the summer of 1943 was that nobody thought anything was going to happen," writes Richard Tregaskis in the beginning of his new novel "LAST PLANE TO SHANGHAI" (Bobbs-Merrill, $4.50). China was crumbling and Scott Osterman, who "already had covered quite a bracket of the new type of wars in Asia and the Middle East," had arrived to cover it. Against the drama of China falling apart, Tregaskis tells the story of Scott, disil-lusioned journalist trying to recover from a shattered marriage, and Martha Shoop, married to a traitor.

ruins in London, began an adventure of the mind recorded in "THE GREAT NORTH ROAD" (Macmillan, $5). Waiting for a traffic light to change on Aldersgate Street, Morley became aware that he also was waiting for the signal on the Great North Road, built by the Romans during their occupancy of Britain. The road is only 400 miles long, connecting London and Edinburgh --- but turning south, the author sees it stretch all the way to Rome; looking north, he sees it lead away from Rome, through the history of England and around the world.

THE HOT DRY Chinook of Western America can raise the temperature 31 degrees in three minutes. Because the Foehn of Switzerland dries everything, the Swiss formed the Foehnwachter to see that all fires are extinguished when it blows. The Mistral, a dry, violent, chilling wind in France, once playfully rolled a string of carelessly-braked freight cars 25 miles. Slater Brown tells these and orther interesting stories in "WORLD OF THE WIND" (Bobbs-Merrill, $3.95).

MANY MILES SPAN the distance, but in "FROM EV-EREST TO THE SOUTH POLE" George Lowe manages to tell in words and beautiful photography numerous side lights and anecdotes relating to these expeditions (St. Martin's Press, $4.50). Lowe as a mountaineer and assistant cameraman on the successful British Everest Expedition of 1953 helped in the assault and took over the photography at high altitudes when Tom Stobart contracted pneumonia. As a result of the successful films, Lowe was picked as the photogra-pher of the Trans-Arctic Expedition, led by Sir Vivian Fuchs. Active as well as armchair explorers will enjoy the thrills of overcoming the hardships and constant danger in the unknown wastes of snow and ice

ROBERT FITZGERALD spent seven years on his new verse translation of "THE ODYSSEY" (Doubleday, $4.95), taking advantage of modern scholarship and the comments of critics who wrote shortly after Homer's time. Illustrated with line drawings by the Swiss artist, Hans Erni, this new work from the distinguished American poet and translator of Greek plays, retains the original pace of Homer's dramatic story-poem.

Seed of Violence

When Quantrill's guerrillas rode into Lawrence, Kan., on Aug. 1, 1863, and murdered 142 civilians, he and his band planted a seed of violence and outlawry that was to continue unabated until the 1933 Kansas City railroad station massacre led by machineguntoting "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

This unbroken descent of America's most infamous desperadoes, both through blood lines and succeeding gang organizations, is traced by Paul I. Wellman in "A DYNASTY OF WESTERN OUTLAWS" (Doubleday, $4.95), an entertaining, thorough and objective history of this regional phenomenon.

Two things stand out when the myth and fantasy are stripped from this near century long era of violence:

(1) All of the major figures were either blood relatives such as the James boys, the Dalton brothers, the Youngers and Belle Starr or members and associates in succeeding bandit gangs such as Bill Doolin, Al Jennings, "Petty Boy" Floyd and many lesser criminal luminaries.

(2) Bank robbery and train robbery were invented and perfected from the horse to the automobile, from the six shooter to the tommygun by these men and most of their criminal activities were limited to a four-state area, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Iowa.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Kitchen remodeling includes attractive desk unit.

HOMEOWNER'S PROB-LEM: We have an old house with an impossible kitchen. The rest of the house is big and comfortable, but both kitchen and adjoining dining room are old-fashioned and crowded. Will you please suggest an alteration plan, including desk space of some sort, so that I may have a place to plan menus and take care of the household bookkeeping?

ARCHITECT A. S. Dadras answers:

The American housewife spends so much of her time in the kitchen, it is very nearly a national tragedy that so many are forced to operate in old-fashioned, inefficient surroundings. The tragedy is heightened when it is realized how attractive good design and modern appliances can make today's kitchen.

The sketches at right show one remodeling idea for making a modern and open family-room kitchen out of two separate rooms. The planning center in the detailed sketch proves a graceful and convenient work center for the housewife. Its fold-down desk top, when in the closed position, keeps the family papers out of reach of children and there is plenty of additional space for recipe books, magazines and other things housewives love to collect.

While the planning center should be within the ability of any handyman husband, remodeling the entire area is a job for a professional. One important question is whether the dining room partition is bearing. If it is, a boxed beam across the ceiling will have to be installed to make possible removal of the partition,

For complete building instructions for planning cen-ter, specify Desk-Bookcase S-3 and send name, address and 50 cents to Architect's Sketchbook, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. For other assistance with kitchen remodeling, consult a contractor or lumber dealer.

Feed and House Your Feathered Friends

Janssen, Allied Artists' actress debuts in "The Bankroll," shows assortment of bird feeders and shelters.

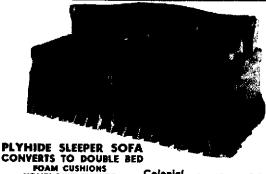

By Steve Ellingson

THAT LITTLE bunch of feathers perched in your tree is important to your gardening efforts. Because of birds' voracious appetites for insects, they eat their weight in bugs every day-a considerable help in your garden pest control.

So, you may want to encourage birds to stay—and, besides their songs, color and exciting activities are fun to watch. Encourage them by building a bird house or feeder from full-sized patterns, five of which are pictured on this page—the large one houses 18 fami-lies, little ones are for wrens, one is a combined feeder-shelter with fins that turn with the wind, and girl holds one that's a feeder for all birds.

tentially of universal interest and good photos can hold the attention of all. But, like anything of value, they require some effort on the part of the photographer, a bit of know-how and a generous helping of psychology.

Children can't be ordered into position like adults nor can they be expected to remain in place like a still life. Taking their pictures must be made into a pleasant activity instead of an ordeal. The photographer or an assistant must amuse or outwit a child with a variety of tricks to maintain interesting expressions and actions that make worthwhile pictures.

THE STAGE is set first with proper equipment. A camera that will focus for close-ups-from three to five feet—is an asset. A tripod is essential since it eliminates camera movement, remains focused on a set area and leaves the hands free until the instant of shooting. The third item is lighting equipment.

Most experts agree that flash-on-camera or the light

ª■ Do It =Yourself eramic

Shooting baby pictures that sparkle requires some advance planning and stage setting. Clucking sound is enough to attract baby's attention for this picture.

bar do not make for interesting, sparkling lighting. They recommend a three-light setup. The lights can be a flash or strobe with two extensions or three photoflood reflector units. They are most manageable on adjustable light stands but clamp-on reflectors will do the job when attached to bridge lamps or chair backs.

The picture - taking area should be about three feet from a plain background. Spread a plain blanket on a low table or use a chair or bassinet top depending on the child's age. The camera is placed about four feet in front of the youngster, just above his eve level. All arrangements should be made with a doll as a stand-in for focusing and lighting to spare the youngster as much as possible from the preliminary adjustments.

of the camera and about a foot higher. It is angled down to the child and can be shifted slightly as the child moves. With Tri-X or Super-Hypan film in the camera, the exposure will be 1.'50 at f/16 with the photofloods.

The other lights will not alter the exposure but will add sparkle and high lights to the face and figure. They are placed behind the youngster, on either side, about two feet away and about two feet above his head. They are aimed downward alongside the child to give an edge light or one of them could be aimed at the background

When everything is set, the youngster is brought in and playtime begins. I've seen Josef Schneider, well known baby photographer, use pennies as a photo prop. He put them between pages in a book so it became a treasure book as the child gleefully discovered them or turned a small sock inside out to retrieve one. Hide several in the blanket fold and the search will keep them occupied for several picture-taking moments.

Hand puppets will get animated reactions from some youngsters while others like to play with pipe cleaners or balloons. Or a dab of chocolate syrup smeared on a foot, after a taste, might result in a cute picture.

LEARNING GOOD picturetaking habits and how to handle good 35mm equipment is just as easy as learning the wrong way, contends Eastman Kodak Co. in a new and instructive manual "Precise 35mm Technique With the Kodak Retina Camera" (Kodak Dealers, 75 cents). The Retina is used as an example, but the book is suitable to most all 35s, Camera handling is an added, but important, section of the 58-page manual which has a wealth of black-and-white and color illustrations dealing with the how and when of interchangeable lenses, viewfinding and rangefinding sys-tems, flash filters, close-up lenses, and exposure meters. Sunntementary tables are included.

You, Too, Can Grow Dichondra

ATER a dichondra lawn only when it is thirsty and do it properly, fertilize the lawn about four times a year, control possible cutworm infestation, keep out the weeds and you'll have a beautiful dichondra lawn!

We know what we're talking about because Mrs. Littlefield and I have just such a lawn. We've had it since April 1941, a long time for an almost perfect dichondra lawn, "Almost perfect" means that weeds start in the lawn from time to time. Wind. birds, dogs, cats and children are the possible "carriers" of the weed seeds such as winter annual blue grass, spurge, the euphorbia weed and oxalis, These are the principal offend-again and may find a few more. A day or two later, I may go over it again. The whole amount of time consumed is perhaps 20 minutes to half an hour.

KNOWING WHEN to water the dichondra lawn and how deep is the trickiest part of all. We don't water ours till we walk over areas that look dry. If pressed down leaves don't straighten up, but stay limp and flat, the lawn needs heavy watering.

Our lawn soil is medium heavy. We water it for half an hour period, Because it is flat and even, the water doesn't run off, If it was on a slope. we'd water for shorter period of time, but repeat enough to add up to that period of time.

well, we put a hand sprinkler on the hose and water a 12inch or so wide strip of the dichondra along the edge of walks, driveway, and at corners, because the lawn dries out faster near cement or blacktop.

During the hottest part of summer, we don't water the lawn more than once every three to four days, because we've learned that's about as long as the lawn stays moist.

WE FERTILIZED our dichondra lawn last January 4. We fed it again April I. That means lawn is fed four times a year. There are several turf fertilizers on the market and they all have good points. We use a turf fertilizer that has an all-organic nitrogen base plus a combination balance of mineral type fertilizers with more than II per cent trace minerals added, plus insecti-cide. We use 25 per cent less of this turf fertilizer than we Gummosis, a gommy substance oozing out through the bark of trees and shrubs can come from different causes but frequently it is due to irregularity of watering letting your tree become too dry and then, to offset your neglect, giving it too much water. The sap channels in the tree become shriveled from lack of moisture and then, when much water is poured through them suddenly, something has to "give" and that something is the bark, which breaks and causes this unhealthy and unsightly condition.

We've had cutworms in our dichondra lawn, but insecticide in the fertilizer controls those pests, but only for a period of time, If cutworm it. festation is heavy, we spray additionally with DDT 25 dieldrin, or chlordane, whichever we have on hand.

Camellias Are His Hobby

THE CAMELLIA is a man's flower," R. W. Ragland of Orange whose hobby of camellia growing has created the largest collection of camellias in containers in the United States. To prove his point, he cites the fact that practically all the camellia clubs throughout the nation are men's clubs and that feminine members are a rarity.

Ragland is an oil executive whose former hobby of deepsea fishing for marlin gave way to the more quiet but in many respects more challenging hobby of flower growing. it began when he came to California 15 years ago from New York City and was startled and intrigued by the By Bob Irvin plant that bloomed in the winter-the camellia.

He started with 25 plants for home landscaping and his curiosity about the various species, colors and qualities of camellias grew steadily. So did his collection of plants. Today his 12,000-square-foot lath house contains more than 1,200 varieties of camellias and is one of the scenic attractions of Orange County during the winter blooming season

"We swap, graft and seed," might be the slogan of camellia fanciers such as Ragland. The "swap" refers to one of the major ways in which of plants.

THE "GRAFT" refers to the grower's practice of attaching promising but delicate seed-lings to sturdy and vigorous root stock such as the Eureka or Purity. Such grafted seedlings retain their own characteristics of color, size and shape unaffected by the grafting stock.

When an outstanding camellia plant "goes to seed," one of the most fascinating parts of camellia culture begins, according to Ragland, An indispensable partner in his hobby is the busy bee who does the vital job of crosspollination. It is through this process that the new varieties of camellias are created. Because the results are unpredictable, the long period of waiting for new blooms is one suspense, mystery and

New 'garden hose killers' let you spray away crabgrass. weeds, lawn diseases

Your Complete Modern Nursery

GE 8-9467

As easily as you water your lawn, you can destroy crabgrass and weeds .. control common lawn diseases! You don't even need to mix and measure, when you use a nozzle type garden hose sprayer and Northrup King Liquid Weed Controls.

Rain? Who cares? An unexpected shower won't undo your application when you use this liquid treatment. And it's faster-acting, too! In fact, the liquid-spray method of weed killing is used by the majority of professional lawn men.

Equipment? You need only an inexpensive nozzle type garden hose sprayer, such as a Fertl-Rain Sprayer, or you can use a tank type pressure sprayer if you wish. Directions are right on the NK Liquid Weed Killer bottles. (No investment in an expensive spreader!)

To kill crabgrass, use NK Liquid Crabgrass Killer. Just spray it on after plants have appeared. (It also prevents lawn diseases such as Copperspot, Dollarspot, Brown Patch and Snow Mold.)

To kill broadleaved weeds, use NK Liquid Lawn Weed Killer (containing 2,4-D). Usually a single application will destroy dandelions, plantain. Repeat application for chickweed and knotweed.

between 300 and 400 such new seeds. It takes from two to three years before these seedlings produce a bloom and before Ragland knows if an outstanding new variety has been created. From these hundreds of blooming plants only 25 or 30 are considered worthwhile for grafting, If the graft is successful and a noteworthy plant has flourished, it is registered with the American Camellia Society as a new variety.

ONE SUCH new variety, which perhaps gives Ragland his greatest satisfaction, originated outside his own collection and was developed by his fellow oilman and friend, William E. Woodroof, It is a brilliant, variegated red and white giant which has won just about every top honor awarded by national camellia societies and which is treasured by growers everywhere. Its name -- the "Reg Ragland Varie-- the 'gated."

Through his intense interest, Ragland has become a walking encyclopedia of camellia lore. In demand as a speaker at garden clubs, he can speak with authority on almost any phase of the history of camellia culture throughout the world. He is an active member in various camellia organizations.

THE BIG CHALLENGES in the camellia world today are the efforts to produce a fragrant species and a yellow camellia, If these qualities can be bred into the camellia family, Ragland helieves the plant will achieve the prominence, variety and popularity of the rose. He is eagerly awaiting the blooming period of a batch of experimental seedlings now starting their second year of growth in his lath house for they may tell whether these challenges have

Some of the "rules of green thumb" that Ragland observes and which may be helpful to the home gardener include using a planting mix of ¼ planters' sand, ¼ peat moss, ¼ rice hulls and ¼ fir bark. Water the plants thoroughly once each week, he says. Feed with a commercial acid fertilizer once every six weeks from mid-March to September. Feed lightly with cottonseed meal once in December just before the blooming period. Camellias like filtered sunlight and plenty of air circulation but do not like either full shade or full sun,

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA is the site of the biggest International Flower Show in the world. For here . . . in the area lying south of Santa Barbara, north of San Diego and east from the Pacific to the desert country . . . you will find a greater diversity of plant life than can be discovered in any other comparable section of the globe. Why this is so and how it happened has not been a matter of mere chance.

In the first place . . . and this is actual fact, not idle prattle . . , the growing conditions of this section are unparalleled. Ornamentals of every description thrive here

. from the agapanthus of Africa to the zinnia of Mexico. The amazing part of this apparent miracle is that the Southland where gardens are now so bountiful was once a semi - desert. Man - provided water and a temperate climate that encourages plant growth from January through December have been the dominant factors,

ONE OF the wonders of this region . . . those from back east and the middle west will confirm this . . . is that in Southern California gardening goes on in the middle of winter. The fact that sweet peas flower outdoors here in December and January is to out-of-staters a never-ending marvel. And remember this , the sweet pea is not a California native. It has come to us from Italy, several thousand miles away. Yet for all this, what new arrivals regard as a miracle of horticulture is considered by others as pretty much common place.

Several nurserymen of the west also have become leaders in introducing new and novel floral importations. They have traversed the rough and often almost inaccessible areas abroad to discover ornamentals that would add pleasure to gardening in Southern California, Were it not for them our horticultural horizon today certainly would appear less glamorous.

THEN, TOO, a vote of confidence is due the growers of seeds and bulbs who have made Southern California the production center for 80 per cent of all the flower seed grown in the United States; as well as the leading growing center for bulbs such as ranunculus, freesias, gladiolus, amaryllis and many others. It is true that many of our flowers which had foreign origin now thrive here in their adopted state with a greater persistence and more exciting beauty than was ever known in their homeland.

California rosarians have also contributed greatly to the current popularity of the rose.

More outstanding new varieties of roses have been developed in Southern California than in almost any other sector; yet the rose is one of the oldest plants known to mankind, dry rose bouquets having been discovered in Egyptian tombs of many centuries ago. The ancient Chinese, too, cultivated the rose probably far back in antiquity, SERVICEMEN at Fort MacArthur had a day of leisure recently when four Hollywood starlets moved in and took over the KP chores. The quartet of beauties—Marilyn Burtis, Claudia Barrett, Theona Bryant and Elaine Davis—were boning up on service life for their roles in "The Last Time I Saw Archie," a Mark VII production for United Artists release. In the film, the gals play the girl friends of four inept civilians drafted into the Air Force in the closing days of World War II, portrayed by comedians Louis Nye, James Lydon, Del Moore and Joe Flynn.

"The Last Time I Saw Archie" stars Robert Mitchum, Jack Webb, France Nuyen and Martha Hyer, with Robert Strauss, Don Knotts, Harvey Lembeck and Richard Arlen in featured roles.

► ASTE BUDS ready? Nap-• kin in position? Knife and fork poised?

Then by all means swing into action and enjoy a gourmet treat of such excellence that your palate will vibrate pleasantly from the pure thrill of it. This treat is the grilled swordfish with melted parsley butter as served at Welch's, a modern palace of a restaurant on Atlantic Ave. at San Antonio Dr.

When it comes to preparing this dish, Chef Larry Contaoi is a whizzing wizard. He chooses center cuts of swordish, slices them expertly to retain the natural juices and grills them with gentle herbs and spices that accent the delicate flavor. The fish is flaky, definitely unfishy and easily parted with a fork. Tabbed at $2.25, it's served with soup du jour or a beautiful salad, creamy whipped potatoes (or baked, if you prefer), light fluffy hot holls; coffee, tea or milk.

MEMO TO CLUB CHAIR-MEN: If you're looking for a site for your club's next banquet, try Welch's. Manager Arnold Vann (one of owner Rex Welch's top idea men) announces that the restaurant now has two handsome banquet rooms, each scating up to 35 persons. These are the Mural Room (featuring a 50-foot jungle scene painted by artist E. R. Neumann) and the Upper Garden Room. Each is equipped with sliding shoji screens, providing complete privacy for group meetings.

Prices in the banquet rooms are the same as throughout Welch's. Open from 11:30 a.m. daily (Sundays from 1 p.m. on), the restaurant also offers these superb entrees on the dinner: grilled northern halibut, $2.25; Columbia River salmon steak, $2.25; shrimp or crab Newburg, $2.50; broiled lobster, $3.50; small tenderloin steaks, en casserole, $2.75, and baked sugar-cured ham with candied yams. $2.25.

LONG BEACH'S RIVERBOAT, 'THE PRINCESS,' WHEELS OUT TO SEA

Worlds First Ocean Riverboat Makes Television Debut Monday

WITH ALL THE POMP of a luxury liner embarking on her maiden voyage, the world's first ocean "riverboat" makes her television debut from Long Beach Monday.

The "Princess," modeled after an 1890 riverboat, cruises the video lanes at 9 p.m. on channel 13 (KCOP).

Numerous Hollywood stars will be present for the sailing.

Among those scheduled to attend are Lorne Greene of "Bonanza," William Wyler, producer of 'Ben Hur," and John Bromfield and John Griffith, both from "Sheriff of Cochise."

H. J. Vajener, producer for the Monday program, said either Mamie Van Doren or Jayne Mansfield will be the "surprise guest" of the evening.

LONG BEACH will be represented by Mayor Edwin Wade and other officials. Members of the Harbor Commission will participate.

Until last year, she was used as a sightseeing boat at Catalina Island, Purchased by Southland Harbor Cruises, Inc., the 37-year-old vessel was converted into a riverboat complete with a dance floor, main salon, bar, sightseeing bridge and can-can attired waitresses.

One thousand lights on her hull transform her into a glittering, floating palace,

Her principal voyages will be between the Reef restaurant in the Port of Long Beach and the Ports O'Call restaurant in the Port of Los Angeles.

SHE WILL ALSO be available for group chartering, including dinner cruises. The sidewheeler can handle up to 235 passengers.

Headlined by Buddy Morgan, Monday's onehour television debut for the boat will include a varied entertainment program as well as interviews with dignitaries and stars.

Carl Bailey, radio station KBIG announcer, will serve as master of ceremonies. Mac McClintock of Pierpoint Landing, producer of television's "Fish-ing Flashes," will provide narration.

MILLIE PERKINS IN TV DEBUT

Star of 'Anne Frank' Rides 'Wagon Train'

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Millie Perkins, a young actress who made one of Hollywood's most auspicious movie debuts, is going into a TV western.

Millie came to Hollywood a few years ago as an unknown actress for the title role in "Diary of Anne Frank" and a contract at 20th Century Fox studios.

When "Diary" was completed. Miss Perkins toured the nation on its behalf, then returned to Hollywood to await roles that would put her further along the path to movie stardom.

Her only other picture at Fox was "Wild in the Country" with Elvis Presley. She was released from her Fox contract last year and turned to freelance acting.

"I did everything Fox gave me to do except Tess of the Storm Country," she said.
"I was in the threes of deciding what to do."

"I was in the throes of deciding what to do."

After leaving Fox, Miss Perkins considered her future career as an actress in Hollywood and how to perfect it.

The bright-eyed, 23-year-old is now looking for acting experience, a fact Millie admits is ironic when compared to the fact she starred in a multi-million dollar picture her first time at bat.

"TI WASN'T UNTIL AFTER 'Anne Frank' that I decided to act," she revealed. "And I knew I didn't have enough experience to do anything that came along. Now, any kind of acting I do will provide experi-

Miss Perkins was especially pleased to be working alongside Dean Stockwell, her husband and one of Hollywood's finer actors.

Besides having somebody to carry her lunch pail to the studio every morning, Millie relied on Dean's experience to pull her through the rough spots on "Wagon Train" during the episode airing 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4.

"He's a very good actor and it was nice to have him in my first TV show," she said. "You hear stories about TV, things like not much rehearsal time and the speed of filming scenes.

"You need to have a little experience before going on TV and I hadn't had that pressure on me before. My experience in acting is so minute.

"It worked out though, and I found out it was easier than I thought it would be."

* * *

MISS PERKINS SAID that Stockwell's presence in "Wagon Train" was beneficial for the show and made her work easier.

"Dean is the type who would leave things up to me, but he discussed the show with me at home," she said. "He's a good actor and does work that I want to be part of.

"Everybody wants to work with talented people and Dean is one of those capable performers that people like to act with."

Besides concern over her own inadequacies as an actress. Millie was worried lest she upset Dean on the set and perhaps spoil his work.

But on that score, the veteran young actor assured his wife that she needn't worry about him. His assurance came in the form of a friendly warning.

"He said, 'Don't worry, I'll take care of number one,' and then suggested that I do the same," Millie revealed. "He also said, 'I'll help you as long as it doesn't hurt me,' and I believe he is right in thinking that way.

"I was concerned that the director's yelling at me might affect him," she added. "But nothing will ever affect his work."

Miss Perkins plans to play her first stage role this summer and looks forward to other parts opposite Stockwell.

Bert's Eye View

Ben Hunter, the nation's first "beeper jockey," is planning another innovation.

He's going to present a travelogue without scenery.

If there is any scenery, it will merely be incidental to Hunter's main objective—people,

All kinds of people.

In Japan, for example, he plans to arrange for an interview with Kichisaburo Nomura, the ambassador to the United States at the time Pearl Harbor was bombed.

By way of contrast, he also hopes to talk with a Japanese girl who runs a bathhouse.

If his plans materialize, Hunter won't be doing much of the interviewing.

"John Q. Public will have the assignment," he said.

For Hunter, who runs a travel agency in addition to his TV-radio affiliations, has taken with him 65 persons on a tour that left for the Orient last week.

IT IS MAINLY they who will do the questioning.

"We're going to talk with famous people and nobodies," said. "We're after human interest rather than scenery. By letting John Q. Public ask the questions, I think we may motivate a tremendous force for world relations."

In 1944, after discharge from the Air Force, Hunter was primarily interested in personal relations-namely, getting a job.

Having attended radio school while in the Air Force, he decided his career should be somewhere in the broadcasting realm.

He recorded an audition as an announcer and sent it to a Portland, Ore., station.

To most of the officials who heard that audition, Hunter sounded like the "world's worst announcer." One executive, however, thought he had "latent possibility."

He offered to bet $10 that he could make Hunter a good announcer in six months. Hunter got a job and the executive later collected his $10.

★ ★ ★ TODAY THE "world's worst announcer" has 50,000 members of 52 fan clubs, "Ben Hunter Night Owls," including a group in Long Beach.

He has his own television show on KTTV (channel 11) from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. daily and at 10:30 p. m. on Saturdays.

He has a daily radio program from midnight to 5:15 a.m. And he owes most of his success to the "beeper and people."

In 1950, he was told to do an all-night show for radio station KFI. His competitors were "just playing music" and Hunter felt something different was needed in addition to the records.

'So I started yakking," he said, "just reminiscing.

"Well, the phone started ringing and people were anxious to tell me of things my reminiscing reminded them about."

That's how he became the nation's first "beeper jockey."

With the "beeper phone," listeners could hear both sides of the conversation. Hunter suddenly had the biggest "cast" in show business.

"And my sponsors started getting tremendous results," said Hunter.

Other broadcasters copied Hunter's format. Currently, there are two or three "beeper jockeys" in every major city in the nation.

But Hunter isn't worried about the competition.

So far none of his competitors have organized travel bureaus or trips to the Orient.

EVERYBODY LOVES A WARM BATH AND A PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE

A TRAINED MASSEUR AT YOUR BECK AND CALL 24 HOURS

Never before could your family enjoy professional whirlpool massage in the home bathtub. Before the development of the portable lacuzzi, whirlpool massage was available only at clinics and expensive health clubs. Now your entire family can enjoy whirlpool benefits, in your home, for a few cents a day. It offers long lasting relief from daily aches, pains, nervous tension and fatigue.

Water massage is not a new idea. Ancient civilizations — the Romans, the Greeks, the Japanese — used water and water baths for relaxation and for the treatment of many human dls. The healing and cure live powers of warm, agitated water were well known.

Today, throughout Europe and America, better hospitals, clinics, health spas, and private clubs provide whichpool water massage for those who can allord it.

Now you and your entire family can enjoy the same beneficial water massage in your home bathtub — every day, several times a day. You can whirl away sagging tiredness, feel like new again with a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

You simply set the Jacuzzi unit into the bathtub and till the tub with water. It starts automatically,

In the morning, use cooler water and full force of the Jacuzzi to wake up the blood stream, the brain and the ambition.

In the evening, use warm water, and gentle hydromassage to calm interveners, massage away pain, and prepare you for deep restrol sleep.

Use the Licuzzi 15 to 20 minutes each time. You determine whether you want vigorous massage for stimulation or gentle mussage for relaxation.

You relax in the tub of water. Like many finy fingers, the moving water filled with millions of vibratory air bubbles massages every

Change the massage pattern to suit yourself. Adjust the unit for vigorous hydromassage or gentle whirlpool bath. Unit maintains water temperature.

'CHESTER' HAS BUSY WEEKEND

Major League Umpire Safe in TV

By JOE ST. AMANT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Art Passarella is the first major league baseball umpire to make the grade as a professional actor. And appropriately enough, from a baseball fan's viewpoint, he plays mostly hoodlum roles.

Passarella is a good-natured guy and he laughs when he says:

"I'm type-cast as a hood
... a gangster. I'm always somebody's henchman. It's like when I went into the service, they made me an MP

Art has played a lot of "hood" parts in such television series as "The Untouchables" and "Malibu Run." But he's exaggerating when he says he gets only gangster roles. He's played a hayseed on "The Andy Griffith Show," and a U.S. Army colonel in the movie, "Judgment At Nuremberg."

AND HE'S FILMED a segment of the "Guestward Ho!" show (channel 7 at 7:30 p.m. Thursday) in which he plays the role he likes best — an umpire.

Art umpires a Little League baseball game in the show and gets into a rhubarb with a team manager (who else?). But this manager is a little different. He's a she—lovely Joanne Dru. She gets sent to the showers by the ump.

"She's the prettiest manager I ever threw out of a game," says Art. "I've enjoyed a lot of parts but I enjoyed this one most ... working with her and playing a part which was mostly myself. I had to watch my language, though."

art BOWED OUT as a major league umpire in 1953 when he hurt his right leg covering a pickoff play at first base. He's had two operations on the leg and it's improved to the point where he now umpires college games in this area just for the fun of it.

He misses umpiring in the majors. He officiated at World Series games in 1945-49-52 and in five All-Star games. But he likes acting too.

He got into the acting tacket through Johnny Berardino, former Cleveland and St. Louis Browns infielder.

Berardino is an established actor—as a matter of fact he was an actor before he was a ball player. As a boy, he played in "Our Gang" comedies.

"Why don't you be an actor?" Berardino told Passarella. "You've been acting all your life—as an umpire."

Tape Religious Programs

Representatives of the National Council of Catholic Men and NBC-TV are currently in England taping four religious programs at Oxford University.

The series will be presented on television in August.

Prominent English churchmen and scholars will participate in the programs. The conversational subjects will center around Sir Thomas More, Cardinal Newman, G. K. Chesterton and Msgr. Ronald Knox.

FCC Authorizes Stereophonic FM

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission has authorized FM radio stations to begin stereophonic broadcasting on a regular basis June 1.

Listeners must have FM stereophonic receivers to get the broadcasts, FM sets which are mounted in a stereophonic record player combination may be used for stereophonic broadcasts if an adapter is used,

The new service involves simultaneous broadcasting over two separate microphones. The broadcasts are received on receivers cquipped with two loud speakers.

How this 20-year-old partnership helps keep America strong

Since May 1941, America's banks have sold nearly 2 billion separate U.S. Sav-ings Bonds at no cost to the Government or the taxpayers.

Why have the nation's banks and bankers carried on this vast project of information, service, and issuance of U.S. Savings Bonds?

Savings Bonds?

I winning team. For one reason, the Bond Program and the Banking business have grown together. Hand in hand, they've helped make Americans the saving-est people in the world.

Another thing bankers are interested in: Bond dollars help keep America strong. A good reason for the banking business or any business to get behind the Bond program.

What you buy at the Bond window.
Savings Bonds are guaranteed to grow;
$18.75 becomes $25 in nother 10 years, and grows to $36.25 in another 10 years.
If they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.
Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—for the things you want, and the Peace to enjoy them.

says Carl A. Bimson, President, Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Arizona, and President, American Bankers Association.

"We believe it is good for America as an economic stabilizer; it is good for the individual and the com-munity; and it is good for banking. The promotion of Savings Bonds has helped to make savers out of non-savers, to revitalize the Ameri-ean tradition of thrift, and to build savings in all forms to record levels. "The American Bankers Associa-

Actor Claims 'Emmy' Awards Go to 'Lucky'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)--"Oscar and Emmy awards should be in the form of a four-leaf clover instead of human beings," says non-winner Ricardo Montalban

"Luck is the deciding factor for performers for both awards," the Mexican-born awards," the Mexican-born actor said

"First, they must be lucky to get an outstanding role. Second, they must perform in a picture that will be noticed by everyone. Third, they must have someone or a big organization get behind them and promote their performances."

An intense man with deep feelings about the acting promovies and television," he said, "But they are not an accurate gauge for judging acting ability. Maybe they should handle acting awards like they do prize fights.

"In the ring the champs meet face to face. Perhaps three top Oscar contenders should do 'Hamlet' individually. Then have the two winners meet in the finals by playing 'Othello.' The most impressive performance would then win the award."

THE TEENAGE Wayne Sisters will be on hand for 'Ice Capades Premiere' at 8 p.m. Tuesday, channel 11. Bill Welsh will interview celebrities attending the opening night of the event.

'Astronaut' Special Tonight

With the launching of America's first spaceman expected this week, NBC-TV (channel 4) airs 7 p. m. today (Sunday) a special on "The Astronauts."

Interviews will be conducted with John H. Glenn Jr., Virgil I. Grissom and Alan B. Shepard Jr., one of whom will be selected for the flight.

Frank McGee, the interviewer, will attempt to learn why the astronauts sought their assignment, why they were chosen for it and how they react to the hazards of the experiment.

high and 290 miles south from Cape Canaveral, the launching site. The selected astronaut will make the space flight in the capsule of a Mercury Redstone rocket.

Friends and associates of the men also will be interviewed.

A film report will deal with the tests and training undergone by the astronauts to prepare them for the experiment,

RICARDO MONTALBAN fession, worthwhile roles in top movies have eluded Montalban for a dozen years.

Disenchanted with pictures, he turned his energies to television where he has fared somewhat better. He appears in a racketeer role 9:30 p.m. Thursday on "The Untouchables," channel 7. His per-formance in "Rashomon" earlier this year on "The Play of the Week" has Ricardo steamed up for a pussible Emmy nomination.

"THE QUESTION IS where does the role end and the performance begin?" he said. "Would Laurence Olivier stand a chance to win an Oscar if he were limited to playing in Esther Williams' swim pictures? 1 don't think so. Neither would anyone else,

"For years I was stuck in Latin lover parts with no opportunity to act. I had no chance doing 'On An Island With You' while Marlon Brando was starring in 'On The Waterfront,'

"A man with great talent in a mediocre role can't win. Yet a fair craftsman in a great role has a good chance to win an award even if he doesn't scratch the surface of the character he is playing."

Montalban also criticized both the screen and TV academies for running popularity contests, claiming sentiment should not enter into the awards.

"I ADMIT THE AWARDS are necessary because they stimulate public interest in

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

MONEY-WISE CHURCHILL. When the history of 20th-century English literature is written, it will probably reveal that the two personages who earned the most from their writings were Sir Winston Churchill and George Bernard Shaw. Churchill, who's already earned more than a million from his literary output, recently sold the paperback reprint rights to his history, "The Second World War" for more than $200,000. An American paperback publisher will bring out the first volume of the set of six in September. Entitled "The Gathering Storm, " it will sell for $1.25.

CARDIAC PACER. Westinghouse is developing an electronic heart stimulant for possible use by millions of heart patients. Overall plan calls for a doctor to carry a radio receiver about the size of a pack of cigarets. When one of his heart patients suffers an attack, the radio beep-beeps the doctor. He tunes the patient in, listens to the heart beat, prescribes emergency treatment. Full development of the plan is a few years off but the cardiac pacer is now being used in hospital recovery rooms.

TANGO FIGHT. The tango is in danger of extinction in the Argentine, land of its birth. It is being replaced by the Brazilian samba and the cha-cha, and Argentine dancers are complaining. They want their government to enforce the law against neglect of the tango which was promulgated in 1949. This decree obliges all disc jockeys and musicians to play as many tangos as all other types of music combined.

COST OF BIRTH. The cost of being born is keeping pace with the cost of staying alive. Five years ago in this country it cost approximately $125 to $150 to have a baby. Nowadays, the Health Information Foundation reports, it costs almost twice as much.

ROMAN SCANDAL. Actress Sophia Loren has a beautiful raven-haired young sister, Maria Scicolone. Maria is in love with jazz pianist Romano Mussolini. 32, youngest son of the late Benito Mussolini. He would like to marry Signorina Scicolone, but his sick mother, as of this writing, has refused even to meet the girl. The widow of Il Duce does not feel that Maria Scicolone belongs in the same social league as her son.

FILM CENSORSHIP. The Vatican claims the wave of juvenile delinquency currently sweeping Italy is the result of Italian films, most of which it describes as "immoral" and "aimed at the masses and those who are most defenseless against unhealthy suggestions."

DOCTOR ADDICTS. About one in every 100 doctors becomes a narcotics addict in this country according to a recent survey. The incidence is 40 times greater than in any other professional group. Doctors who work under tremendous pressures occasionally succumb to them. Since they have access to narcotics, the weakest of doctors sometimes fall prey to the opiates.

THE BICKS CASE. Washington wants to know why Attorney General Robert Kennedy didn't invite 33-year-old Robert Bicks, the government's top trustbuster under Eisenhower, to remain in the Department of Justice. It was Bicks who prepared the Government's anti-trust case against the nation's major electrical manufacturers who were found guilty of a conspiracy to fix prices. Is it because Bicks is younger than Kennedy and a rivalry for the spotlight? Or is it because Democrats controlling the Senate Judiciary Committee are not particularly fond of Bicks?

FRENCH SUPERMARKET. Last of the major nations to hold out, France this summer will succumb to the Americanstyle supermarket. A gigantic one is being constructed at La Place de la Nation in Paris, part of the growing Americanization of the world.

GET THE WHEELS WITH THE DODGE ON TOP

Do you prefer a compact or full-size car? No matter. We build both. Our compact, the Dodge Lancer is priced down the line with Comet, Falcon and Corvair. The Dodge Dart, a full-size Dodge, is priced model for model with Ford and Chevrolet. All Dodge cars, compact or full-size, share features their major competition does not offer. For instance:

STANDARD OR COMPACT YOU GET A GREAT DEAL WITH DODGE

Each has a unitized, rust-proofed body. A superb ride: Torsion-Aire. And a new device called an alternator. It will make the battery last far longer than usual. Because, unlike a conventional generator, it will charge even at idle. Whichever size car you prefer, compact or standard, see your Dodge Dealer. He's got the wheels with the Dodge on top.

Tampax takes the once-a-month slump out of your wardrobe

If you're like some girls, you retire certain items in your wardrobe once a month. Those Capri slacks, for instance. Those brief Jamaica shorts, That devastating sheath. And all your bathing suits. Can't risk telltale outlines.

But how different matters are when you're a Tampax user! Because it's worn internally, Tampax* can't be seen or felt when in place. There are no bulges, no telltale outlines, nothing to cause embarrassment. You feel your natural, cool, fresh, sweet self. And you can swim, play tennis-even ride-without chafing or irritation.

Odor can't form--with Tampax. Disposal is easy-with Tampax. A package of 10 Tampax can seere: slip inconspicuously into your purse. Tampax is available wherever such products are sold in your choice of Regular, Super or Junior absorbencies.

Why cut yourself off from the clothes you like best for 5 full days each month? Use Tampax and be protected the "invisible" way!

PERSONALITY PARADE

- Q. I've heard that President Kennedy wears lifts in his shoes. Is this true? - Elaine Barron, Newark, N.I.
- A. President Kennedy's right leg is longer than his left. He therefore wears a lift in his left shoe.
- Q. I understand that Rex Harrison has earned more than a million dollars in royalties from his My Fair Lady record album. True or publicity?—H. Tyron, Miami, Fla. A. Harrison receives 9 cents per album; as of this writing, he has earned $228,000 in royalties for one afternoon's recording work.
- Q. Before Elizabeth Taylor starred in Butterfield 8, didn't she insist that her husband Eddie Fisher he hired as an actor at $100,000?-N.P., Los Angeles, Calif.
- A. MGM producer Pandro Berman confirms that Eddic Fisher was paid $100,000, but declines to comment on whether or not Elizabeth Taylor was instrumental in getting her husband that salary.
- Q. Which TV shows are being canceled at the end of this season?—Harriet Engel, Chicago, Ill.

NEW

NEWEST ANTI-KNOCK DISCOVERY —
TETRAMIX by DuPont, combines the best of both tetraethyl lead and tetramethyl lead—surpasses either alone in anti-knock quality.

Only in NEW RICHFIELD BORON do you now get the full benefit of this advanced anti-knock discovery. This fine new gasoline completely removes objectionable, costly knock in 99 cars out of every 100.

NEWEST CARBURETOR CLEANER — MULTI-PURPOSE ADDITIVE by Ethyl Corporation, ends the need for costly carburetor "boil-outs". Such "boil-outs" (removing, cleaning, reinstalling, and adjusting) may easily cost you $12 to $25 or more, plus the loss of having your car laid up.

Multi-Purpose Additive is one of the few gasoline additives that effectively cleans out deposits already accumulated in your carburetor—and then keeps it clean and clear of future deposits.

You'll be dollars ahead and miles ahead, with NEW RICHFIELD BORON. It's 2 ways new ... 10 ways better to make your driving more economical than it has ever been. You'll notice better performance with your first tankful... and you'll stretch your driving dollars with every tankful. Start today to be money ahead... with NEW RICHFIELD BORON.

BETTER

NEW RICHFIELD BORON—with these 2 new gasoline components added to the exclusive Boron Formula—assures you of better car performance 10 different ways:

- 1 Delivers higher road octane key to better performance.
- 2 Controls combustion for smoother power.
- 3 Stops stalling at traffic lights.
- 4 Cuts ring and valve wear, for longer engine life.
- 5 Assures smoother, quieter idling.
- 6 Increases peak horsepower for better engine efficiency power and speed when you have to have it.
- 7 Ends the need for continual carburetor adjustments.
- 8 Saves on expensive engine "tune-ups."
- 9 Protects fuel system against rust and corrosion.
- 10 Increases gasoline mileage.

TV westerns and crime shows are raising this serious question:

IS AMERICA BECOMING

Fast-draw champion Jack Sims, 23, draws and fires in .42 seconds. He won $1,000 prize at Las Vegas tournament.

by LLOYD SHEARER

VIOLENCE BREEDS VIOLENCE. How to shoot and get shot. These are the by-products of the western and crime programs now glutting television.

For example, one evening several weeks ago, Bernard Precweski, 28, a Las Vegas blackjack dealer, decided to practice his gunhandling.

A veteran viewer of TV westerns, from which he had become addicted to the fast-draw, Precweski drove out to the desert with his .22 Ruger pistol. The gun was loaded with live ammunition.

Wearing a glove on his left hand, the dealer whipped out his pistol, began firing furiously at a target, fanning the pistol as he fired. Suddenly a loose finger-end of the glove caught on the pistol hammer, flipped it up and backwards, sent a bullet through Precweski's chest, killing him.

An isolated case? Perhaps. But consider these facts: From July 1, 1956, to July 1, 1959, 72 young men were treated for gunshot wounds at the U.S. Naval Hospital in San Diego. Of this number, 16 fitted the pattern currently described by doctors as the "Fast-Draw Syndrome" or "Dodge-City."

Record-Time Round

Writing in a recent edition of the Western Journal of Surgery, Dr. J. V. Brown explains: "For many, simple watching [of TV] with its vicarious thrills is not enough, and numerous gun clubs have sprouted across the land, the sole purpose of which is to foster in their members the ability of rapidly extricating a hand-gun from a hip holster and getting off a single round in record time. It has become so common a trauma pattern that the house staff in our hospital has labeled it the 'Dodge City' or 'Fast-Draw Syndrome.'"

A follow-up editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association concludes: "The fear that present-day television programs teach bloody instructions is now proved to be well-founded."

Speaking before the American Legion in Miami, Fla., last October 18, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said: "The continuous diet of mayhem, murder and violence served daily to our television audiences constitutes a monumental insult to the genius that developed this mass medium."

Recently Ed Sullivan fired the following broadside at TV violence: "Maybe I'm biting the hand that feeds me. But TV violence is hurting our children. Some of our wildest westerns and crime shows are not fit to be seen by anyone under 14."

According to the National Association for Better Radio and TV, viewers saw 144 murders on seven Los Angeles TV channels in one recent week, all before 9 p.m., when the largest portion of the nation's child population is watching TV.

In preparing this article I interviewed the proprietors of seven gun shops. All agreed that TV westerns were the largest single factor in booming their sales.

"It's the greatest thing that's happened to us," one confided. "People have become gun-happy."

GUN-HAPPY?

Shooting stars Barry Sullivan (I.) and Clu Gulager do scene in TV western series, Tall Man.

Deadly wink accompanies two-gun draw as beauteous. Cindy Layne eyes target. Cindy is queen of Los Vegas fast-draw taurnament. Many women are taking an interest in the quick-draw.

TV star Jackie Cooper, wrapped in leather, gets ready to try his hand at fast-draw.

The fact is that TV is responsible for the organization of so many Fast-Draw gun clubs that annual tournaments are now being staged on the technique of drawing and firing a pistol.

The Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas stages a Fast-Draw Competition in which the first-prize winner is awarded $1,000. In 1959 approximately 100 slingers competed. Last year it was 200. This year the hotel expects 400 to take part.

Doctors claim that in practicing a form of potential violence, the violence becomes integrated into the behavior pattern.

Dr. Edwin Patton, one of California's leading pediatricians, says: "Little boys are generally attracted to gun-shooting, but they usually outgrow that stage. Constant repetition on TV, however, of the fast-draw serves to prolong that interest. And for what purpose? More guns used in that way mean more accidents, more deaths."

Arvo Ojala, reputedly the "fastest gun in the West," who trains Hollywood cowboys to shoot, says, "You'd be surprised how many guys shoot themselves in the thigh trying to get the gun out of the holster. And some of these hotshots on TV, they're bums when it comes to using live ammunition."

One advertising executive who refuses to be named—I find this reluctance quite common in the advertising and television business whenever the subject of violence is brought up—claims that television isn't responsible for the fast-draw. "The true culprit," he says, "is Owen Wister."

The Villain Draws

Owen Wister, of course, was the author of The Virginian, a novel published in 1902. In this book the "fast-draw" was first described. In a climactic chapter, the hero and the "heavy" stalk the streets of a western town searching for each other. Presently they spot one another and each waits for the other to draw. The villain draws first, but the hero is faster. He whips out his gun in record time and the "heavy" falls dead.

Wister described the scene with drama and excitement and it became a basic ingredient of all westerns since. To hold Owen Wister responsible for its excessive, stereotyped use on television is, of course, both fatuous and ridiculous.

The Senate's Juvenile Delinquency Committee will soon hold hearings on the whole question of violence on TV and its influence on youngsters. Meanwhile, the Conference on Impact of Motion Pictures and TV on Youth has directed a confidential memorandum on this problem to the Senate committee.

The strongest point the Conference makes is that "many movies and TV shows clearly violate the standards set by the movie and TV codes." The memo also calls for a probe of the "psychological trigger" effect on youth of crime, sex and horror shows.

Since Newton N. Minow, new FCC Chairman, assumed office, he has started to scrutinize TV and radio license holders to see whether they live up to their promises. In the past, renewal of licenses was automatic. Now, Mr. Minow is much stricter.

The FCC Chairman has said, "I certainly hope that we can have more wide-open spaces between the westerns, and more public affairs instead of private eyes."

The truth is that television has made the fast-draw glamorous, especially to impressionable youngsters. All 16 victims of the "fast-draw syndrome" in the U.S. Naval Hospital were young men between the ages of 18 and 27. And it is youth in this age-bracket that commits the most violent crimes in America.

Intelligent observers suggest TV should reduce the number of crime and western programs, or it should present them with more complete realism.

As the Journal of the American Medical Associution suggests: "True realism would go on, after a shooting, to show the disfigurement, the hopeless disorganization of joints, the helpless invalidism, the laming and blinding that so often follow."

WOMEN in SPACE

by JACQUELINE COCHRAN, first woman ever to break the sound barrier. Miss Cochran has established more international flying speed records than any other man or woman. For her work as head of the WASP (Women's Air Force Service Pilots) in World War II, she won the Distinguished Service Medal. She is an officer in the Air Force Reserve.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.

Was men will. FLY INTO SPACE just as certainly as men will—only not so soon. I would like to predict that a woman will go into space by December 17, 1963—which is 60 years to the day after the Wright brothers first flew—but probably within six or seven years would be more realistic.

In my opinion, women can be just as good "astronauts" as men. A medical research project for possible women astronauts now under way at the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research here has indicated this in its checks of women volunteers.

Economically, this country can't afford right now to have women pilots flying as a part of the Armed Services. It's considered too expensive when there is no emergency or shortage of this kind of talent. It costs the government several hundred thousand dollars to qualify a jet pilot. Such a government-trained pilot cannot be a sporadic flyer; he must fly regularly. And with women, marriage and children are likely to interrupt their flying careers.

The Lovelace Foundation, out of private donations, is bearing the expense of the women volunteers. The ones who pass will become a group and may later receive specialized training to participate in space flight as astronauts or as engineers or skilled technicians. I am special consultant to the Foundation connected with this program.

So far, this medical research program for women is unofficial and is just a gleam in the eyes of doctors interested in aero-space medicine. I know they'll put at least several men in space over a considerable period of time before they try it with women. But the private research program could eventuate into a government-sponsored program.

Qualified Pilots

Our women are civilian volunteers who:

- are under 35 years of age, in good health and less than 5 feet 11 inches tall;
- are qualified pilots with substantial experience in the air, measured by hours flown;
- hold a Federal Aviation Agency instrument rating and medical certificate.

Approximately 20 women believed to have these qualifications were initially invited to participate by the Lovelace Foundation. Others have since been invited. At least 12 have already agreed to take the test. Five have already passed: Jerrie Cobb, Janet "Jan" Dietrich, Marion Dietrich, Mary Funk and Rhea Hurrle. They are all good pilots.

The medical check of the women is exactly the same as given to the men astronauts. Of special medical interest is the fact that Jan and Marion Dietrich, who live in California, are identical twins (see cover) — of the "mirror" type, in that one is left handed and the other right handed. Both have cow-licks, but on opposite sides of the scalp. They both passed the tests pretty much as if one person were taking the tests twice.

In addition to a thorough medical checkup, special tests are given dealing with resistance to stresses of various kinds. One is the tilt-table test, in which the candidate is tilted on a table that is held up at about a 60 degree angle and pulse, respiration and blood pressure are taken at frequent intervals. The efficiency of the vascular (blood supply) system is checked in this way, and abnormalities in the functioning of the blood vessels are almost surely disclosed.

Physical Strength

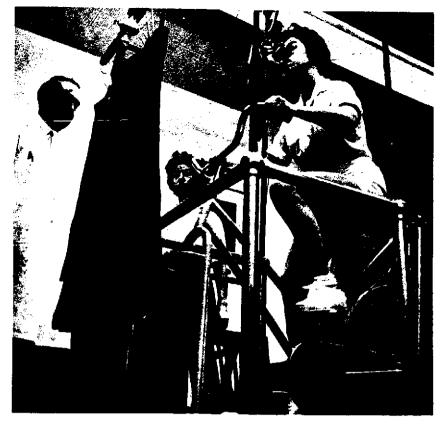

Then there is an endurance test, which is roughly the equivalent of pedaling a bicycle uphill for as many minute: as the candidate can reasonably take, during which changes such as pulse and respiration rate are noted.

While women are not as physically strong as men, such strength is not essential for space flight. That women are lighter is not a disadvantage.

The tests are under the direction of Dr. Randolph Lovelace II (who developed the first workable pilot's oxygen mask and who was in charge of the Aero-Medical Laboratory at Wright Field during World War II) and Dr. A. H. Schwichtenberg, head of the Aero-Space Medical Section of the Lovelace Foundation. Only about 60 per cent have passed of those who have taken the tests, either men or women, so it can be assumed that if about 20 women volunteers are checked, approximately a dozen will qualify for any future phase of the program.

No woman volunteer in the present medical phase has any obligation to carry on in any future program. But all of them, so far, want to fly into space and some may get the chance. I myself, while not an active participant in the present program, expect to fly into space before I hang up my flying gear. I think the day of women in space will come sooner than most people believe.

But this program is the first "launching pad" for women in space. If you are a qualified and healthy woman pilot and you want to take the first step, which takes six days, write to me care of the Cochran-Odhum Ranch, Indio, Calif. You might become the first woman astronaut who really earns that name.

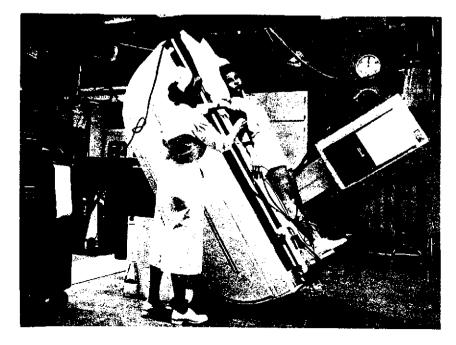

Jan Dietrich takes strenuous bicycle test as Marlon waits turn. The 103pound twins graded with the men's records in this test of physical endurance.

Huge tilt-table swings Jan 60 degrees in 21 seconds to test blood pressure. Many people pass out when sudden tilt causes fast drop in blood pressure. Jan didn't.

A CHICKEN-AND-RICE SPECIAL

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

TODAY'S RECIPE is a company affair, something really special that takes more time than usual to prepare but is well worth it. Build a memorable dinner around it: start off with jellied consommé made lively with cut chives. Accompany the chicken and pilaf with fresh asparagus, scattered with sautéed mushroom caps. Serve crisp raw vegetables instead of salad. For dessert, have old-fashioned strawberry shortcake.

Baked Chicken Breasts with Rice Pilaf

6 boned broiler-fryer breasts 1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika 4 tablespoons butter or
1/2 teaspoon salt margarine, divided
1 can (103/4 ounces) chicken gravy

Place chicken breasts in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with paprika, salt and pepper; dot with 2 tablespoons of the butter. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Pour gravy over chicken and bake 20 to 30 minutes longer.

FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

FOR PILAF: Cook 1 medium onion, chopped, and ½ cup diced celery in 3 tablespoons butter until tender. Add 2 cups chicken broth, 2 tablespoons raisins and 1 cup raw rice; bring to a boil. Cover tightly; reduce heat; cook 14 minutes. Sprinkle with ¼ cup toasted slivered almonds. To arrange platter, pile pilaf in center; surround with chicken breasts. Serves six.

When baby goes a-strollering...

It's a fun time, a sun time, sometimes a snooze time, even a "coos" time. And think of the benefits! Fresh air invites an appetite, sets cheeks to bloom and woos the sandman. Any baby weighing over 8 pounds will enjoy and reap rewards from the fresh air these fine days. Carriage clothes and coverings should be weather-wise and non-confining.

More fun, anyone? Baby will love the bouncing beauty of a fat balloon tied to his carriage. A portable radio is also a fun carriage accessory.

It's "Bringing Up Baby" Week at your grocer's. Do stop on one of your strolls and see how many services he provides for your convenience.

Baby Week or any week, your cherub should have cereals for the iron they provide. Gerber Cereals have iron to spare...6 tablespoons give him more than 100% of the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowance for iron. In addition, Gerber Cereals are enriched with B-vitamins and calcium. The delicate but distinctive flavors are palate-pleasing. The texture is creamy-smooth when mixed with formula or milk.

Inside story. Baby's carriage can be put to good use indoors, too. Swell for parking baby when you're a-bustle with chores. And you can wheel it from room to room so baby can be near you.

Vitamin C

is a necessity for sound gums and body tissues. Gerber juices are rich in this important vitamin.
Your choice of 6...2 straight juices and 4 combination fruit drinks.

Tasty "pets" for older tots. Now Gerber Junior Cookies come in adorable animal shapes. A joy to eat, fun way to teach baby animal names. Nutritionally, they've twice as much protein as most other cookies, plus B-vitamins in the icing. Take any time close to snack time, and serve them with a luscious Gerber Juice.

Here at Gerber we carefully prepare over 100 cereals, strained and junior foods, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"

Where should Dad be when the baby is born?

WHERE SHOULD A MAN BE when his wife is having a baby? Is his proper place in the hospital delivery room at his wife's side? or outside pacing the hallway? Or would they both be better off if he stayed home until after the baby's arrival?

These are important questions today in the U.S. where 4,250,000 babies are born annually, because they touch upon vital family relationships. Many a modern mother thinks it would do her husband good to "realize what we go through" and to "share the experience."

Others want their husbands to stay away because "having a baby is a woman's business," for her to experience alone. It cannot, they believe, be shared.

Doctors also have varying points of view. One obstetrics department chief in a New York hospital says, "We've got a real battle on our hands. Half our staff wants fathers in the labor and delivery rooms; the other half wants to keep the men out." Many hospitals are finding themselves in the same fix.

Part of the reason for this stems from the fact that increasing pressure is being brought on hospitals to permit husbands to stay with their wives in labor and delivery rooms. Much of this pressure comes from parents' groups devoted to the idea of natural childbirth.

In Seattle, for example, the Association for Childbirth Education, a citizens' group, reports that 12 of the community's 20 hospitals "now allow fathers to remain with their wives throughout labor and delivery; five others permit fathers into the labor room only."

Similar movements are afoot in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. They reflect a growing belief that closeness before and during birth can strengthen marriage and make for more deeply devoted mothers and fathers.

Here is a sampling of opinion obtained by PARADE from various points around the U.S.:

Husbands should not be close by

Many wives dread the idea of husbands' witnessing labor or delivery. One Maine housewife said that her husband, a farmer, was out "bagging squash" while she was having their baby—and that's how she preferred it.

Says a Texas doctor, "Many labor rooms have from two to four beds. How do you think women in labor might feel having strangers—the other husbands—hanging around?"

Dr. Eugene C. McCann, Chief of the Obstetrical Service, Maine Medical Center, Portland, represents the "mo-never" school in stating:

"It is my opinion that the husband has little to contribute. The purposes of all concerned are best served when he goes home to his children or to work to help pay for the ever-increasing costs of hospitalization."

Adds Dr. John S. Lyle, of the Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital, Hanover, N.H.: "The main effort here is to keep the husband out. Even seasoned nurses have been known to faint in the delivery room."

An Illinois doctor declares that the husband should be kept out, because he may have an infectious disease and also because he may "be a nuisance. Husbands have been known to pass out in delivery rooms."

Husbands should be with their wives

The Maternity Center Association, New York, a national organization devoted to improved maternity care and education for parenthood, advocates husband-wife closeness. Says a spokesman for the Association, "What is more fitting than for the husband to share with his wife the extraordinary experience of labor and delivery?"

If the husband is educated to understand the birth process and able to accept what he has learned, there is no good reason to deny him entry to the labor and delivery rooms, says the Association spokesman.

"Being with his wife," he adds, "the husband can serve as a great source of comfort and reassurance. Having experienced childhirth together, they will be happier for it in the years ahead."

If the husband sincerely feels that he ought to be with his wife, he should be granted the opportunity, according to Dr. H. Lloyd Miller, of Cedar Rapids, Ia.—provided the husband has taken a course of study in preparation for parenthood. But another view is held by Dr. Sprague Gardiner, professor of obstetrics and gynecology, Indiana University Medical School, Indianapolis. He says:

"Some wives want their husbands in the labor room, and I encourage this if it seems that their closeness will have real meaning and emotional value to them."

However, Dr. Gardiner does not believe husbands should witness actual delivery because it is a medical procedure which can be complicated by a panicky husband.

In regard to husband-wife closeness, as a factor in pulling the marriage together, Dr. Gardiner concludes, "I do not believe you can spoil a good marriage, or save a bad one in a few such hours."

"A husband's place is at work or at home," says Mrs. Shirley Simonds, 33, holding her sixth baby, Deborah. "My husband agrees with me. He has no desire to see a birth, or to pace the hospital while his babies are being born."

"If they permitted husbands in the delivery room, I'd have gone in," says Rev. Alan R. Mc-Hwaine (above) viewing his first child. "You want to be close to your wife if you love her. I think it would have been beneficial to both of us and it would have given my wife more courage."

What every husband should know

There are important psychological overtones to the question of where the husband should or should not be. Guilt, fear, shame, joy, desire and self-realization are a few of the emotions usually involved.

Morton Schillinger, a psychologist and director of the Lincoln Institute for Psychotherapy, New York, offers these cautions:

- 1 Husband-wife closeness at the time of birth may be a good idea, but neither should insist on it because it is "the thing to do."
- 2 Is the husband prepared to feel anxiety and to see his wife in pain? If, in the labor room, he finds he must leave because it becomes too much to endure, should he feel guilty? Hardly. He has reacted honestly.
- 3 Wives must ask themselves, "Am 1 prepared to share this experience?" Many would say no, if they searched their emotions honestly.
- 4 Will the husband's presence inhibit his wife from giving vent to her feelings? Will she think that if she cries out in front of her husband it will lower her in his estimation? If so, husband-wife closeness isn't worth it.

Dr. Jean Pakter, Chief of the Maternity and Newborn Division, New York Board of Health, advances the views of a physician and mother.

"Let's individualize this," she says, "If the husband is a worry-wart, excitable and high-strung, he'll hardly be able to comfort his wife. If he is a screne and placid personality, who knows what to expect, he may well serve as a source of strength and comfort to his wife."

Says Dr. Pakter, "Many wives feel that they want to spare the man they love the sight of their travail.

"All of this does not mean that the husband should be miles away. He should be as close to his wife as soon after the birth as possible. At that time, wives really appreciate the warmth their husbands can provide."

--- ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

"In early labor, if husband and wife want to be together, OK, but not after that," says Dr. Robert M. Knowles, attending obstetrician at the Center. "In the labor room, the woman usually is under sedation and can't communicate anyhow. In the delivery room, what husbands see would only serve to upset them. This is a controlled situation. Outsiders have no place in it."

LEO GARRE

by JERRY LESTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Watching Jerry Lester gag it up in supper clubs, it is difficult to believe that this veteran Chicago-born clown started out in show business as a boy ballet dancer. A torn ligament halted that career, and Jerry switched to comedy. "During summers," he recalls, "when school was out at Northwestern, I played a lot of small towns in the Midwest." Ultimately, Jerry went to Broadway where he won recognition as a versatile, experienced comedian and was a standout in several musicals. He became a favorite comedian of millions when in the early 1950s he took over such TV shows as Broadway Open House and Saturday Night Dance Party. Since then he has been playing night clubs, telling such jokes as these:

THE OTHER DAY Caroline, a secretary I've had for some time, called me up to resign because she was going to have a baby. "Mr. Lester," she said, "I'm getting too big for this job."

A WELL-KNOWN ACTOR passed away while resting in Palm Springs. His body was shipped back to Hollywood. At the services all his old friends passed by to take one last look. Said one friend, "He looks marvelous, doesn't he?" Snapped the actor's agent: "Why shouldn't he? He's been in the desert all winter."

A FEW WEEKS AGO I struck it pretty rich at Las Vegas. They paid me off in $1,000 bills. When I got to Los Angeles, I tried to cash one in a famous night spot. They didn't have change. In Tucson, Ariz., and in Santa Fe, N.M., I had the same trouble.

Finally I got to Texas. In Houston I dined at a large hotel, ate real well. When the waiter gave me my check, I took it to the cashier, decided to pay for my dinner with one of my $1,000 bills. I handed it to the cashier, then remarked matter-of-factly as she began to make change, "I don't reckon you have any trouble with those in this part of the country."

The cashier said quizzically, "Trouble with what?"

A MOTHER-IN-LAW came to visit her daughter. After a short visit of three years, she began getting on her son-inlaw's nerves. The son-in-law tried various devices to get the old lady to leave but none would work. Finally, he and his wife got together, decided to starve the old girl out, but in a nice way.

One morning after the old lady had been on the starvation diet for two weeks, she came down for breakfast.

"Mother, darling!" the daughter called out. "How would you like your egg this morning?'

Cracked mother: "Next to another one, if you don't

A MAN AND HIS WIFE visited an eye doctor. Said the man, "My eyes are awful red."

Said the doctor: "When did you first notice this?"

"I think," said the man, "the redness is caused by

The guy's wife couldn't control herself, "Doctor," she pleaded. "Ask him what he poured in the glasses."

I have a young nephew who's just reached the awkward age. You know what the awkward age is-when they're too young to leave alone and too old to leave with the babysitter.
